VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, JUNE 12, 1953—32 PAGES

Heavy correspondence greets Premier Bennett on return to city today.

'LIBERALS WON'T BE A FACTOR'

Bennett Predicts Socreds Will Carry B.C. in Federal Vote

By GORDON FORBES

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, exuding confidence and ready to plough into a mountain of work, arrived back in Victoria today after the provincial election and immediately predicted Social Credit will capture the majority of B.C.'s 22 seats in the coming federal election.

"Social Credit will sweep B.C. in the federal vote," said the jaunty premier. "Now the Liberal party has collapsed that party won't be a factor in the federal vote in this province."

He said he plans to take a leading role in the federal campaign with "a better deal for B.C. from Ottawa" as his slogan.

He considers the B.C. election "the beginning of the end" for the Liberal party in Canada. It already has collapsed in western Canada, he said.

Premier Bennett disagreed with the federal government's plans to hold an election in the summer. He said it will meet disapproval all across the country because Canadians will be on holidays.

"A summer election will boom-erang on the Liberals," he predicted.

"It's a sign of weakness," Premier Bennett was met at the morning boat from Vancouver by about 50 candidates and well-wishers. As the premier came off the boat, they struck up the tune: "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The premier said he's glad to be back in Victoria and is confident final counts will give him from 30 to 34 seats.

"We can look forward to four years of political stability which will mean economic stability and progress," he said.

He said his government will "resume where we left off" and follow the same program as laid out before the last session.

"Our program, which was defeated in the House, has been vindicated by the people—the greatest court in the land," he declared.

He said the fall session will start in September, and supply (remainder of the budget) will get priority.

The Rolston Formula on school financing, which defeated the minority government last March, will go ahead as planned, and a new liquor act will be brought in.

"We have received a great vote of confidence in the Rolston Formula," he said.

SOUNDLY BEATEN

The premier pointed out that George Miller, PC candidate and the strongest opponent of the formula, had been soundly beaten in Point Grey by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

The premier, asked if Finance Minister Einar Gunderson will seek another seat in a by-election if beaten in Oak Bay, said: "Mr. Gunderson will be elected without any doubt. Great credit is due him because he spearheaded the drive on the Island."

On milk price decontrol, originally scheduled for May 1 but postponed until after the election, the premier said "it's in the cards."

Canadian Pacific Railway officials expected regular communication lines would be opened later today. Railway bridges had been washed out in the north, east and west.

Medicine Hat was recovering from a flood by the South Saskatchewan River which forced the evacuation of about 50 persons Thursday when it poured over 30 city blocks.

Seventeen mothers and their babies in a maternity hospital in the area were being held ready to move if the river rose higher.

Flood waters washed out a water supply line at Cardston, a town of 2,500. Temporary pumping facilities were set up in a nearby creek.

The water supply at Granum was being supplied by three wells in the town as the Willow Creek slowly returned to normal level.

One of two river pumps was

CZECH RIOTS SPREADING TO BULGARIA

'Near Revolution' Put Down in Pilsen

VIENNA (AP)—Unconfirmed reports reaching Vienna today said riots, demonstrations and strikes are still sweeping Communist Czechoslovakia and that similar disturbances have broken out in Bulgaria.

The reports, lacking authoritative confirmation, claim that Czech workers at Moravska Ostrava, capital of the nation's "Ruhr Valley," and in Bratislava, capital of Slovakia, have rioted and clashed with police since troops suppressed a near-revolution in Pilsen, June 15.

Overworked, under-nourished miners, angered by the loss of their savings and reduction of their buying power through a drastic currency reform on May 30, were reported to have torn down pictures of Stalin and Lenin in the mines.

These incidents were reported to have occurred after rioters in Pilsen stormed the city hall June 1, tore down the Soviet flag, raised the U.S. Stars and Stripes. A state of martial law was maintained for five days.

Unconfirmed reports, meanwhile, alleged that Iron Curtain discontent also has threatened the Communist regime in Bulgaria. Tobacco workers in Dimitrovo and Blagoevgrad recently demonstrated for more bread, which is rationed and expensive in Bulgaria. Details of their show of strength against the regime were not known.

The latest in the long series of steps taken to prod Russia into concluding an Austrian pact resulted from Moscow's recent refusal to attend a four-power meeting on the problem in London May 27.

WHEAT FUTURES SLIP

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat futures sold below the $2 level on the board of trade today for the first time since March 25, 1950. In a weak market which clipped fractions to several cents from prices, the July contract sold down to $1.99.

14TH FATALITY

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Paula Parker, 69, died in hospital here Thursday of injuries received March 30 when she was struck down by a car after alighting from a bus. It was the 14th traffic fatality in Vancouver this year.

TRUCE MOVES CLOSER

As Rok's Demonstrate

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

South Korea remained adamant today in its refusal to cooperate with the United Nations in a plan to end the Korean war.

South Koreans chanted, marched and wept through their fourth straight day of anti-truce demonstrations while their leaders stood pat on statements that Rok troops will not be withdrawn from the front when an armistice is signed.

Despite the unbending attitude of President Syngman Rhee and his people, Allied and Red staff officers worked in secret on the last details of an armistice that appears almost a certainty. They have been meeting at Panmunjom since the prisoner-of-war exchange agreement was signed Monday.

While the staff officers of both sides worked for peace the Reds launched new attacks in central Korea while Rok troops battled to plug a gap in the main Allied line on the eastern end of the front.

About 1,500 Chinese troops charged United States lines in the second day of heavy attacks but were thrown back by fresh U.S. reinforcements.

Meanwhile, in New Delhi Indian officials conferred on plans to guard Korean prisoners. India will act with Czechoslovakia, Poland, Sweden and Switzerland as a commission to supervise the prisoners who refuse to return to the Reds pending final disposition.

South Korean leaders said Indian troops will be attacked if they attempt to take over the care of prisoners captured by Rok troops.

YUKON CLOSING UP AS POLIO TOTAL HITS 78

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (BUP)—Polio brought social life to a standstill today in this normally thriving Yukon community.

Military and civilian officials banned public gatherings here and in Dawson City, famous from gold rush days, because of a serious outbreak of the crippling disease.

Public meeting places, schools and theatres were closed as the number of polio cases in the Whitehorse area rose. Yukon authorities reported 78 cases, including three deaths.

Health department officials were en route here from Ottawa and Edmonton, and supplies of Gamma Globulin serum, believed effective in arresting cases of early paralysis, were being flown in.

STARVING COUGAR MANGLES WOMAN

Doctor Flies Victim to Hospital; Air-Borne Hunter Slays Attacker

ALERT BAY—A 24-year-old Indian woman, Mrs. Peter Coon, is recovering in St. George's Hospital here today after a terrifying tussle with a savage cougar that left her hands and shoulder badly mauled.

She was attacked Wednesday morning outside her home about eight miles south of Englewood on Vancouver Island.

Unarmed neighbors rescued her after a "hand-to-claw" fight with the animal, then called Dr. H. J. Pickup of Alert Bay.

Dr. Pickup flew his own aircraft to the scene, 86 miles north of Campbell River, where he treated the woman and took her back to the hospital.

"She was suffering from shock, but by the time I saw her half an hour after the accident, she was pretty annoyed about the whole thing," Dr. Pickup told the Times today by telephone. "She is getting along fine."

The incident began Tuesday, when residents at the Lansdowne logging camp saw the cougar, and drove it from the camp by throwing stones.

It was then that Mrs. Coon chased the cougar from her home after it scratched at the door, and on Wednesday morning, after warning his wife to stay in the house, went for help.

Frightened at being alone, she started for the home of a neighbor. The cougar, that had been lurking under the house, pounced on her. It pinned her to the ground and chewed her hands as it attempted to reach her throat.

Her screams, meanwhile, attracted A. Lansdowne, camp owner, who grappled with the cougar and succeeded in throwing it some distance. Other men kept it at bay until the injured woman could be taken to her home.

Courtesy police were called, who sent "Skate" Haines, Merivale hunter, to the scene by B.C. Air Lines aircraft. He shot the emaciated animal shortly after noon, explaining that its starving condition had led it to attack Mrs. Coon.

standing in the line-up, from grandparents, down to the youngest tots; people sat in wheelchairs and stood leaning on crutches, waiting to reach the theatre door; there were school children, elderly couples long away from their English homes but still with a great love for the Royal family shining in their eyes. And there were visitors from across the line, eager to see the pageantry and history that makes up the story of England.

Interest was added to the early-evening scene in front of the theatre with arrival of guests invited to the official opening, sponsored by Victoria Municipal Chapter, IOOE.

Within the foyer, white-clad standard bearers of primary and junior chapters, led by Mrs. L. A. Lucas with the Municipal Chapter standard, formed an honor guard. Mrs. Thomas Lumsden, regent of Municipal Chapter, with Mrs. P. E. Corby, hospitality convener, and E. Brown, manager of the Odeon, received the guests.

Officers of three services wore their dress uniforms; heads of the RCMP were in scarlet and gold; many of the female guests were wearing formal summer evening gowns. The Government House party

Formal Announcement Expected From Cabinet

Dominion election day is Aug. 10.

Confirmation of the date was received locally today with advice that election writs have been mailed from Ottawa.

The writ, dated June 12, is being sent by registered mail "ordering an election in your electoral district." Nomination day will be July 27.

Enumerators are expected to be appointed immediately for preparation of the voters' lists.

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet went into session promptly at 10.30 a.m., EDT, today in what may turn out to be a day-long meeting to dissolve Parliament and formally name Aug. 10 as the federal election date.

There were three absentees from the meeting—State Secretary Bradley, Labor Minister Gregg and Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader in the Senate.

Mr. Bradley and Senator Robertson are believed in London and Mr. Gregg at an international labor organization meeting in Geneva.

A press conference has been called for about 5 p.m., when the government's decisions will be made.

Informed Liberal headquarters said August 10—long speculated upon—was the day of polling agreed on informally among the ministers. It remained only to have this nailed down officially by the cabinet.

On arrival here from overseas early Thursday, Prime Minister St. Laurent said he had not decided finally on a date. But several hours later party sources said August 10 was it—definitely.

The announcement was expected to be made after a day-long meeting of cabinet. Several other matters are to be dealt with by cabinet.

Several Senate appointments may be announced today also, filling at least some of the 18 vacancies in the red chamber in customary pre-election fashion.

Mr. Macdonald is one of those mentioned for the Senate, in the event he does not get the voters' portfolio. Others include Joseph Bradette, former deputy Speaker and Liberal member of the Commons since 1926.

Some other suggested senators: J. B. McNair, Liberal premier of New Brunswick between 1940 and 1952; Joseph A. Blanchette, Commons member for Compton-Frontenac; parliamentary assistant for defense and former vice-president of the National Liberal Federation; Leonard Tremblay, Commons member for Dorchester and Quebec Liberal whip in the House.

Another reported move out of the cabinet is that of Works Minister Alphonse Fournier of Hull, Que., believed to be headed for the Exchequer Court of Canada. There is no firm information either on Mr. Fournier's shift or on a possible successor, though Commons Speaker Ross Macdonald of BRISTOL, Eng. (Reuters)—A young test pilot plunged to his death Thursday because he refused to crash-land Britain's top secret twin-jet, the delta-winged Gloster Javelin, into a cricket field full of terrified schoolboys.

The plane landed unspooled and was not seriously damaged.

Peter Lawrence, 32, got into trouble in the Javelin at 20,000 feet above thickly-populated Bristol. He could have parachuted safely—but instead he shut off the fighter's engines and set out for open country.

Victorians Storm Theatre for Premiere Of Colorful Film Story of Coronation

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Victorians stormed the Odeon Theatre by hundreds Thursday, all intent on being among the first to see J. Arthur Rank's dignified and moving presentation "A Queen Is Crowned."

They began to queue up early in the morning, and when the doors opened at noon they were lined up, four and five deep, for more than half a block.

That queue never diminished. It grew. And when invited guests began to arrive for official opening of the picture in the early evening, it extended from the theatre to the Victoria Public Library corner and around on Blanshard Street almost to Johnson.

There were whole families standing in the line-up, from grandparents, down to the youngest tots; people sat in wheelchairs and stood leaning on crutches, waiting to reach the theatre door; there were school children, elderly couples long away from their English homes but still with a great love for the Royal family shining in their eyes. And there were visitors from across the line, eager to see the pageantry and history that makes up the story of England.

Mrs. Thomas Lumsden, regent of Municipal Chapter, with Mrs. P. E. Corby, hospitality convener, and E. Brown, manager of the Odeon, received the guests.

Officers of three services wore their dress uniforms; heads of the RCMP were in scarlet and gold; many of the female guests were wearing formal summer evening gowns. The Government House party included His Honor the Administrator, and Mrs. Gordon McG. Sloan, their daughter, Mrs. Buntie Marshall, Cmr. Hew Patterson, ADC, and Mrs. Patterson, leading members of the church, provincial and civic organizations, and business and professional circles in the city, were also present.

Opening ceremony commenced with procession of standard bearers and placing of standards on either side of the stage. Mr. Brown gave the address of welcome and Archbishop H. E. Sexton the benediction prayer.

Adding a note of local color and interest was presentation of Coronation scholarships to five young high school students by Municipal Chapter, IOOE, as special awards to mark Coronation year.

Miss Christine MacNab, Municipal educational convener, introduced the students and Mrs. Lumsden presented the awards. J. F. K. English, municipal inspector of schools, congratulated the IOOE on their educational program, which includes $850 spent annually in Greater Victoria for bursaries and scholarships.

The five $100 Coronation scholarships presented to an outstanding student in each of the Greater Victoria high schools brings the total for the current year to $1,350.

Winners were Miss Brenda Sigrist, Esquimalt High; William Kinsey, Victoria High; Brian Grier, Oak Bay High; Douglas Shrimpton, Mount Douglas High, and Donald Richardson, Mount View High.

Rain, Hail, Lightning Hammer Lethbridge

Triple Punch Blacks Out Emergency Service, Brings River Up Again

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (BUP)—A fierce rain, hail and lightning storm lashed at Lethbridge during the night and silenced emergency power service that was put into operation two days ago after floodwaters from the Old Man River knocked out municipal generators.

The triple punch blacked out the city. Windows were smashed by the hailstones and basements were flooded all over again by rain that came down in torrents for 45 minutes straight.

Already swollen six inches above flood level by a heavy mountain run-off, the Old Man River rose higher with the rain after it had started to slowly subside.

A few of the 150 persons evacuated from the river-bottom area Wednesday had been preparing to return to their homes when the storm hit. The flooded powerhouse also was returning to operation, with one generator running at a little less than half capacity, but lightning kayaked the line that had been bearing the brunt of the load.

The rampaging Old Man River almost completely destroyed a sand and gravel plant in the River Bottom district. Most of the conveyors were reported ruined and some washed away, and the huge gravel bins were swept away by the current.

One of two river pumps was back in operation and water was being pumped at about half capacity. City residents were asked to continue water conservation. Lethbridge's largest laundry and a brewery reopened after closing down to conserve water at the height of the flood.

Canadian Pacific Railway officials expected regular communication lines would be opened later today. Railway bridges had been washed out in the north, east and west.

Medicine Hat was recovering from a flood by the South Saskatchewan River which forced the evacuation of about 50 persons Thursday when it poured over 30 city blocks.

WORDS INTO ACTION

Russians in New Peace Overtures

BERLIN (AP).—The Russians started translating their German peace offensive into action today in a series of small but highly significant moves.

Communist radio Berlin announced at noon the British film "White Corridors" would be shown in the east sector theatres in the English language.

Only one West German film, "Double Lottchen," a fairy tale without any political tinge, has been shown in East Germany in the last two years. No Allied films have been permitted and the Soviet zone has been restricted largely to films from Moscow.

The East German government also announced the lifting of the Soviet sector ban on sale of food to West Berliners. It was imposed last December and scores of West Berliners were arrested and jailed for short terms on charges of "damaging the state economy." The declaration also said westerners can buy cigarettes and coffee in the ration-free stores, get their hair cut and their shoes shined.

MISTAKES MADE
Meantime the "explaining" department of the Communist regime pumped out long statements, repeating that "many mistakes have been made" and it now is necessary to correct them.

In a resume of the sweeping "decommunizing" campaign, the East went beyond its original announcement that certain types of prisoners would be released.

The government said "all sentences" against persons charged with crimes against the state would be reviewed.

This broadening tone was illustrated immediately by a disclosure that the Supreme Court has already acted in one instance. An eighth-month term imposed on a woman farmer has been annulled. The high court sent it back to the lower tribunal with an assertion there had been "no effort to establish truth." The woman had been jailed for failing to meet her crop quota.

Bertrand Hanged

MONTREAL (BUP).—Rheal Leo Bertrand, 37, Ottawa, was hanged at 1:10 a.m. (EDT) today at Montreal's Bordeaux jail for the murder of his wife.

Bordeaux jail officials say Bertrand, a pant-presser and self-styled psychologist, was pronounced dead at 1:21 a.m.

There was no federal interference this time in the execution of the death sentence.

Bertrand had been granted a two-weeks stay of execution by Justice Minister Stuart Garson to permit a mental examination.

But the notification sent Thursday from the office of the Quebec secretary of state to the Montreal sheriff's office indicated Bertrand found him sane.

He was tried twice for killing his 35-year-old bride of three months and burning her body in an isolated cabin north of Hull, Quebec.

The judge who presided at the first trial died before he could pronounce sentence.

Work Starts At TV Site

VANCOUVER (BUP).—First step in construction of Vancouver's television station was taken Thursday with start of clearing at the CBC's Mount Seymour transmitter site.

Excavation work for the transmitter, which is expected to be on the air before the end of October, will begin Friday.

Contracts for the transmitter and the Georgia Street studios will be let before June 25. A CBC official estimated all equipment would be installed before the end of September.

Films of eastern CBC programs will be flown direct to Vancouver, processed and shown within 12 hours.

Jaycees Renewing Bumper Tape Sale To Protect Driver

Continuing efforts to increase visibility of night-time drivers, members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will reopen sales of reflective tape for car bumpers tonight.

Commencing at 7:30 p.m., Jaycees will tape cars at Saleway lots at Oak Bay Junction and at Herald and Douglas Streets. They will also operate at the Monterey parking lot at Hillside and Douglas.

So far 160 cars have been fitted with the tape. Cost to the motorist is $1 a bumper.

Mr. Pearson Makes It Plain

THE LANGUAGE OF DIPLOMACY does not usually employ superlatives or exaggerations. It is restrained and precise in meaning, even though to the layman its phrasing may appear to concern itself only with generalities. Consequently when External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson goes so far as to describe the western allies' disagreement about Far East policy as "a serious dispute" there can be little question of the grave nature of the relations between the United States and her other democratic partners.

Mr. Pearson, who also is president of the United Nations General Assembly, told an American audience that the U.S. will have to revise and unify its thinking on Far East problems if a disastrous rift is not to appear in the western coalition.

He made it clear that "few countries" in the western alliance will agree with the sentiment of many Americans that the mission of the west is to fight communism in the Far East. The enemy is Communist aggression, not the Communist ideology itself. It is aggression the United Nations is fighting in Korea, not communism as a way of life. The two concepts, said Mr. Pearson, are being confused in the minds of many in the United States.

Contributing also to the lack of agreement, as Mr. Pearson pointed out, is a misunderstanding of the dual nature of the forces now operating in Asia.

On the one hand there is the urge of many heretofore backward peoples to assert their nationalism, to reform their social systems and secure for themselves some of the things that will assure them a higher standard of living. There are, on the other hand, the effects of Communist imperialism—the deliberate campaigns of the Kremlin to foment unrest, overthrow established regimes and extend the bounds of territory under Communist control.

"If we of the west," said Mr. Pearson, "are not able to agree on the distinction between these two forces which require a different approach and understanding by us, our co-operation in this part of the world may weaken and disappear to the joy and relief of those forces centred in Moscow and Peking who are using foul means and fair to bring about such a result."

Without that distinction between forces in Asia there can be no settled policy for the west. Mere opposition is not adequate.

"It is felt," said Mr. Pearson, "that our obligation is positive, not negative. Not to intervene against Asian communism but to help democratic Asian governments build up free and stable institutions which will defeat communism by doing more for the welfare of underprivileged and under-nourished millions of the East than communism can ever hope to do."

It is not to be thought that in sounding his warning Mr. Pearson was indulging merely in a few interesting comments for the benefit of the Harvard University Alumni Association. He was delivering the considered opinion of the Canadian government, for the benefit of the government of the United States, of President Eisenhower, of Senator McCarthy, and of the public at large.

His authority, indeed, was undoubtedly even wider. For when the Canadian minister referred to "groups and governments" which see the Communist problem in Asia in a different light from that of some United States observers, he must have had in mind the post-Coronation conference of Commonwealth leaders which was attended by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Seldom has one country spoken so clearly to a friendly neighbor, to warn of grave developments. But in Mr. Pearson, who is well-known and well-liked in Washington and United Nations circles, Canada has a spokesman whose words will be accepted in the spirit in which they are given, whose authority will be recognized and whose good intent will not be misunderstood.

This country speaks increasingly in international affairs with its own voice, but its traditional role of "linch-pin" between Britain and the United States in these troublous times is also becoming ever more important.

Another Warning on Trade

IN HIS ADDRESS TO THE American Marketing Association in Montreal, Finance Minister Abbott has echoed with variations the advice on trade given by Prime Minister St. Laurent to Americans in New York.

On the earlier occasion, the Prime Minister pointed to the impediments to an economically healthy world created by protectionism in the United States.

Mr. Abbott takes the argument a step further and becomes more specific. He notes the inevitability of increased costs to the domestic consumer arising from the protection of home industries—a fact very apparent in Mr. Abbott's home market, incidentally—and explains Canadian anxiety over the raising of trade barriers by the United States against this country.

"Any government," said Mr. Abbott, "would be failing in its duty if it did not show concern over threats of artificial restrictions on the U.S. market for some of our exports—whether they be cheese or oats, lead or zinc."

Obviously a nation as dependent on trade as Canada recognizes the dangers in protectionism applied by an alien market. But the danger does not end there. In its position of free world leadership today, the United States needs strong and economically healthy allies—needs them despite the implication placed upon Sen. Taft's May 27 Cincinnati speech.

And the United States should know from experience that it can have economically healthy allies only in so far as it permits them to trade not solely among themselves but with the richest nation in the world. As the U.S. shuts out imports, the exporting countries find a vital source of their income drying up. When they are thus weakened financially the need for more U.S. loans and gifts becomes apparent.

The consumers in America, denied the competitive prices of imported goods, contribute in taxes to assist their allies—as they have done so generously. But that aid, essential as it has been, is no replacement for the sturdy self-reliance that would come to countries standing on their own feet and finding a welcome market for their products in the United States.

Learning to Help Others

PERIODICALLY NEWSPAPERS here carry lists of successful candidates in first aid and safety examinations conducted by such agencies as the St. John Ambulance Brigade and the Red Cross.

Publication of the names gives the individuals concerned some small measure of recognition for their efforts. In a broader sense the stories do much more. They inform the public that substantial numbers of our citizens have taken the trouble to equip themselves for service in the event of an emergency.

There are some tangible benefits attached to proficiency in first aid. Some industries allow certain extra pay concessions for qualified first aid men and women.

But to the majority of those taking courses, the importance of learning to care for others in the event of accident is less a matter of material gain than of expanding their capacities to help people in distress. That is one of the high marks of citizenship—one which deserves full recognition for the candidates and appreciation for those agencies which provide the instruction.

Only 'Kidding'

THERE IS AN UNFORGIVABLE factuality in the recent report on Captain Kidd's buried treasure. The report states:

"Kidd's career of piracy, in fact, was a miserable effort. His richest prize was the Quedah Merchant, a little ship of 500 tons, coasting from Surat to Bengal with a cargo of silks and muslin, sugar, iron, saltpeter, and a little gold."

In other words the million-dollar caches of treasure Captain Kidd buried in spots from Cocos Island to the shores of Nova Scotia weren't buried by Captain Kidd because Captain Kidd didn't have them to bury. We can forgive Captain Kidd. He probably tried hard even if he failed to become a top-notch buccaneer. But we can't forgive the research workers who have shattered the dream. No wonder we've been listening to some unusual political nostrums of late. A man needs some food for his imagination, and the forces of fact and logic keep knocking over the more engaging fairy tales, like Captain Kidd. Humanity's merely seeking a substitute.

Deep Sea Fishing

'She Has a Secret Vigor...'

The following editorial from the New York Times is reprinted as an interesting foreign view of a great Commonwealth occasion. These are heartening words from a country which, although now a world leader, recognizes the vital importance of Britain in the world of today. Victorians, re-living Coronation Day in the moving pictures now showing, will find them appropriate.

THE world pauses today and turns its eyes toward London, where a young sovereign with a glorious name and heritage is to be anointed and crowned. Her diadem is a symbol of more than the allegiance of a people and a far-flung Commonwealth and Empire. It reminds us all that tradition and heritage are binding forces, that love and romance still make the world go round—that the Divinity which "doth hedge a King" is only really strong when it rests in the hearts of his subjects.

Elizabeth II has won all hearts, including our own. But why should we care that, for still another time in a thousand years, a crown is raised in holy hands and set upon another head? Beauty, youth, motherhood, virtue, devotion—we see them and they stir our hearts, but there is surely more to it than that.

We might be less interested if instead of a charming young woman some dignified, middle-aged man were being crowned and yet we would still be greatly interested.

In the long roll of monarchs whose uninterrupted line goes back to Alfred the Great, the women were few and the men were young or old, good or evil, wise or foolish. Some brought glory to England and some disaster. The bravery of Richard the Lion Hearted, the wickedness of Edward VI, the statesmanship of Elizabeth I, the madness of George III, the stolid virtues of Victoria—as the pageantry of these many centuries unfolds we see that all sorts and conditions of men and women had their day in Westminster Abbey, and passed on.

WHAT SURVIVED

What survived was England, Britain, the Empire, the Commonwealth, democracy, common law, tolerance, the parliamentary system.

Those of us whose ancestors may have come from Britain, or more likely from the European Continent or Africa or Asia, see nothing strange in calling the United States an Anglo-Saxon civilization. What we see consecrated today is therefore an institution and a way of life.

One does not need to be British to grasp the virtues and the greatness symbolized in the Crown placed on Elizabeth's head. Long ago we absolved ourselves in America "from all Allegiance to the British Crown." Yet even then, and surely today and surely as long as we cherish the values by which we live, we too must pay homage to the symbol and meaning of the British Crown.

There are those who see more glory in the Crown of St. Edward and its radiant young Queen today than in the weakened realm and empire over which she reigns but does not rule. Perhaps it is so.

All things are relative in this world, and the greatest of empires and civilizations sooner or later give way to new empires and new civilizations.

We do know that if British civilization fell too, and all we live for, would go down before new barbarians into another Dark Age. This cannot be, nor are there the true signs of such a tragedy.

Who can think so as he glances with his mind's eye today across oceans or continents and sees the enthroning of another British monarch? Is Britain really weak? Six hundred million subjects are paying tribute from lands over which the sun never sets. They feel their common bonds of traditions, ideals, mode of government, material interests, strategic unity. They see their common symbol in the Crown which is being placed on Elizabeth's head.

MUCH LOST AND GAINED

Much has been lost, but not all, and much has been gained. There is no place in our century for the form that imperial greatness took in other days. England was never more than a little patch of "green and pleasant land" in a world of vast continents and adversity. She has known other days of adversity, and more than once the prophets of doom have written a premature "Finis" to the long greatness of her history.

Yet as Emerson said more than a century ago: "She sees a little better in a cloudy day, and in storm of battle and calamity she has a secret vigor and a pulse like a cannon."

Today of all days one feels the vigor and senses the enduring power that can make a young woman the symbol of such greatness. Yet our hearts tell us that we must not lose the person in the symbol. Elizabeth is loved for what she is as well as for what she stands. Her burden is one of the heaviest that any individual must bear in our times.

"What infinite hearts-ease must Kings neglect," That private man enjoy?" Shakespeare's Henry V asked himself. They must give up much, but all the world has seen that Elizabeth is a happy woman, happy in her family and in a life that retains a certain simplicity and earthiness in the midst of the exalted cares of state.

The prayers, the rejoicing and the good wishes that go out for her today from all over the world will be that she remain happy and that Britain remain great.

Our Files

From

June 12, 1893—Victoria and New Westminster companies of the Garrison Artillery will camp at Vancouver on Dominion Day.

June 12, 1913—Capt. R. A. Bartlett, who will be master of the whaler Karluk on her coming voyage to the Arctic, emphatically denied today reports that he had spoken disparagingly of the sailing qualities of the vessel.

Some eastern newspapers even went so far as to say he had stated the Karluk was better suited to a museum than an Arctic trip.

June 12, 1933—The address of King George V opening the World Economic Conference in London was plainly heard by Victoria radio listeners this morning.

I MENTIONED Becher's Brook the other day as that famous obstacle on the Grand National course. It has been just pointed out to me that I forgot to mention how it got its name. I did say it was named after Captain Becher, an amateur steeplechaser. But he didn't design the jump. He just fell into the brook, as many another rider has done, and he happened to make the most memorable remark about his ducking, so men have called the brook after him ever since. As he climbed ashore, with his mouth and stomach and maybe his lungs full of water, he said something to this effect: "Oof, ugh, dammit, pure water is quite as horrible to drink as I've always been warned."

As a total abstainer from water, he must have been a spiritual cousin of that earlier man of fashion, Beau Nash, who was a total abstainer from vegetables. When the Queen (I forget which one) asked him if he never ate vegetables at all, he replied: "On the contrary, Ma'am, I believe I once tasted a pea."

LOOKY, LOOKY. HERE COMES COOKIE

LAST month, the Guides and Brownies sold us large numbers of cookies, which we have just eaten the last of them. I'm sorry. Not only were they pleasant enough as mere food, and not only did I feel with every mouthful that I was helping a Guide somewhere to light this day a campfire which would never be put out, Master Tidley was very amusing, too. On each of them was the Guides' badge, with its motto: "Be Prepared." As a reminder to the wearer, this has always been a good motto. As a warning to the eater of a cookie, however, it is sinister and frightening. Ah well, the warning was needless. Nary a pang, spasm, or convulsion in those cookies.

I AM very fond of foods with writing on them. (I am not thinking of alphabet soup, which talks gibberish at best.) As I come to the last of the peanuts sold to me in aid of the Kinsmen, I regret that each peanut didn't bear some such legend as "A little more than Kin and less than a friend." Or "Do ye Kin John Peanut with his taste so grey?" Or "More Kinned against than Kinning." I hasten to say that I am only fooling, as is my bad habit. The Kinsmen do good deeds on a large scale, with great kindness. It just happens that I abominate peanuts. At least, I'm not nuts about them.

I WAS never completely wild about conversation lozenges, those old-fashioned candies with loving messages written on them. "I love you truly, dear" and "will you be mine?" and so on, in letters of cinnamon or some other spice. But I was always ready to wreck my health on those long sticks with writing that went clear through them, whether they said "Brighton" or just "Scott's."

Scott's was a firm, now gone, that sold boys' clothes by means of good quality, plus free Scott's rock.

Talking of rock candy with writing inside it, I see that much of the Coronation Rock sold in England last week was made in the Republic of Ireland, a place where you mustn't mention the Coronation at all for fear of corrupting the natives. If this isn't a pleasant little irony, what is? It's enough to make even the most oppressed Irishman laugh.

CONFESSIONS

SOME children I know were talking about the naughty and secret things they did when they were young and foolish. One of them told me that she and her sister used to rob their own piggy banks, and their brother said he used to sneak off swimming in dangerous spots and in nasty cold-catching weather, and there were some more of these quite usual crimes. But then the girls told me they used to scrape the writing off the soap (talking of food with writing on it). They knew this was a great waste of soap, and they often got into trouble for making the soap vanish, but they hated the writing on it. It scared them, they said. It was just the name of a well-known brand, but they felt it was a menacing word. I wish I were allowed to scrape the writing off. Anyhow, they attacked this writing with their claws, and with nail-files, and any other sharp instrument, until each new cake of soap was a wreck.

Then their brother told me that he used to take tubes of toothpaste to bed and eat them all night. He was very lucky he didn't pick on the brand which was once used in Germany for committing suicide with... If you can still buy it here. The brand he ate was merely a very good laxative, he told me. He said that once when he was really bored, he drank half a bottle of glycerine-and-rose-water. I bet that wasn't any too non-laxative either. The Turks drink rose-water in their coffee... and very nice, too. But not even the Turks drink glycerine in their rose-water.

BE PREPARED!

GOING back to the cookie-warning. I know some little boys in a Scout troop where the Scoutmaster is an excellent worker and a generous servant of the Scout movement, but whose ideas of "Be Prepared!" are slightly unusual. Each Scout must bring a patent bandage with him each night, in case he gets a small nick on the knuckles or anything like that. Wouldn't it be better if the troop kept a first-aid kit? That would be reasonable indeed. Also, it might be to look after it and use it. However, far be it from me to laugh too hard at a Scoutmaster who is an individualist or who wants the kids to be eccentrics.

People Before Products

From an article by Sir Douglas Copland, distinguished Australian economist, in "London Calling." The excerpt is particularly timely in view of the speech of Mr. Lester Pearson discussed elsewhere on this page.

THE undeveloped areas have taken on a new significance in both opinion and action in the Western world. Some of the European countries led the way in this, as witness the action of the United Kingdom in the whole Indian sub-continent, where 400-million people were led into the promised land.

There are still some bad patches in the record to be cleared, but on the whole the movement to recognize the interests of people in undeveloped areas rather than the products they can produce as the prime motive for development has been one of the great humanitarian influences of recent times.

BENEFICIAL

Mr. Nehru could say not long ago that India's decision to remain within the Commonwealth had been nothing but beneficial to her. Perhaps we do not realize the significance of such a pronouncement. We may take it too much for granted, but the India of 10 years ago would not have done so.

Some so-called underdeveloped countries have the oldest civilizations and the finest cultures. Their problem is to adjust their economy to modern techniques, so that it will bear fruit in raising living standards, yielding more of their products for the growing needs of an expanding world economy and giving to their peoples a new status within their own countries, and as members of the free Western world. Economics and politics are nicely blended, and new world and old have a common meeting point.

There was not long ago published in the United States a massive report by the President's Material Resources Committee. The report shows that the gross national product of the United States will double in the next quarter of a century, and that this will involve an increase in the American demand for materials of some 60 per cent.

More minerals will be required, more agricultural products than the country cannot produce, more timber, more fute, rubber, coffee, and other materials for which the backward countries have the resources.

As this movement takes place the Western world will attain a new economic unity, the under-developed areas receiving capital and technical aid from the more advanced and the richer, and these latter in return obtaining essential goods which they cannot produce from their own resources efficiently or at all.

This movement has for its expression in the Colombo Plan, the President's Point Four Program, and the Technical Aid Administration sponsored by the United Nations. All these plans rest upon the provision of capital and technique by countries that can afford them to those who need them, whilst at the same time working on a basis of partnership.

NEW STATUS

The objective is to raise political status and to make it a reality by affording the peoples of the under-developed areas the opportunity of associating their new status with economic expansion and higher living standards.

The plan, broadly, is to supply technical experts to the countries needing them, to assist in training experts in the same countries, to give some of their nationals the opportunity of gaining experience abroad, to improve the universities and educational facilities available, and to assist in establishing sound administrative methods.

President and Senator

The Times (London)

He voiced all the exasperation that most Americans feel at the long-drawn-out negotiations in Korea and, implicitly blaming America's allies, wondered whether America should not reserve for herself a free hand, especially if the truce negotiations failed.

He defended his plea for a "free hand" away from the United Nations, by referring to the Atlantic Pact which "certainly substitutes a military alliance in place of the United Nations as a means of resisting Soviet aggression," but he ignored the difference between an international defensive partnership, such as the Atlantic Pact, and the "free hand" which he advocated for America in the Far East.

President Eisenhower declared with vigor that no Power could pick and choose when to act alone. The United States, he said, has to have friends. So long as she sought a coalition of understanding, based on common objectives and common standards of behavior, then inevitably there must be compromises.

The President has come out against strong forces at home when it might have been easy for him to remain silent. But the Far Eastern dilemma remains as acute as ever.

The European partners of the United States will have to be ready with positive and convincing policies at the Bermuda conference! If divisions in the western camp are not again to widen greatly,

TWO FOR THE SHOW

'Oscar Class' for Rank Film

(OSCAR CLASS) "A QUEEN IS CROWNED" (Odeon)—To an almost constant sound of applause the pageantry of British history and chivalry passed in magnificent cavalcade before the rapt eyes of an overflowed Odeon theatre audience Thursday afternoon.

"A Queen Is Crowned," the J. Arthur Rank film of the coronation of Elizabeth II, ranks first of the coronation films in the estimation of the historic, something to be preserved for the ages yet to come, must be regarded as one of the greatest films of all time.

It was the warm intimacy of the whole thing, the feeling that you were standing somewhere along Trafalgar Square, Regent Street, and yet, at the same time, had entrance to the hushed reverence of the chance steps of old Westminster Abbey, that lifted this motion picture into the ranks of the rare.

There have been good films of parades before. There have been spine-tingling movies of "Trooping the Color."

ceremonies, "Royal Wedding," and so on. But surely never has there been such a review on celluloid of an Empire paraded before your eyes. There were the Guards, the Household Cavalry; there were the proud Royal Marines, the tremendously colorful Scots with their drummers and pipers, the Beefeaters of another Elizabeth.

There were the units and regiments who flew the battle banners from wars and forays dating back an unbelievable period into the dim beginnings of British history. There was the incomparable martial music that set the toes tapping and the floors rumbling. There was the haunting, stirring "Soldiers of the Queen," the gay "Waltzing Matilda," and the haunting wail of the pipes.

And very part of the whole were the contingents from the Commonwealth countries, now proud homeowners of their own. Who could forget the gallant Aussies marching by, the New Zealanders, and the roar that went up as the famed scarlet riders of the plains, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police rode past.

Suggestions, But Not Orders

COMPANIES issuing lists of "suggested" prices should inform both their employees and their customers that no compulsion or requirement to fix such prices is intended in the issuance of such price lists, the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission has declared.

The companies should make it clear to their employees and customers that under the law no limitation may be placed on the freedom of a purchaser to resell the article at a lower price, the commission stated following its inquiry into alleged instances of resale price maintenance in the Montreal district.

The inquiry was made under the Combines Investigation Act and arose out of complaints that employees of Procter & Gamble Company of Canada in Quebec had required wholesalers to resell at prices not lower than the company's suggested prices.

"If the import of the new legislation in relation to the circulation of lists of 'suggested' prices were clearly explained, there would appear to be less likelihood of situations arising of the nature of those disclosed in this report," the commission concluded.

Under an amendment made to the Combines Investigation Act in 1951 a supplier is forbidden to require or induce his trade customers to resell his goods at or above prices fixed by such supplier. However the supplier is not forbidden to suggest prices or to fix maximum prices.

In its report the commission stated that certain officials of the Montreal district office of Procter & Gamble had attempted in two instances to persuade wholesalers to resell at suggested prices. In one case the company had refused to fill the wholesaler's orders until he agreed to adopt the suggested prices.

The commission found that the situation developed because the company's local officials feared that sales by wholesalers direct to retailers at lower than the suggested prices would impair the company's pool car system. This system was designed to supply independent retailers at prices closely comparable to the prices at which the chain stores were able to buy because of their large bulk purchases.

Under this system the soap company canvassed retailers direct until it had enough orders in a given area to make up a car. The company distributed the goods from the car and credited such sales to a local wholesaler. The wholesaler then billed the retailer at a lower price (since he had no distribution costs) than if he were selling to the retailer direct.

Success of the system depended upon the participation in an area of a sufficient number of retailers to make up a car. In this case the local company officials were worried that the wholesalers in question might attract a large number of retailers by offering them special prices.

These prices while not as favorable as pool-car prices were better than prices suggested for sales direct from wholesaler to retailer.

The local company officials were afraid that they might draw so many retailers to deal direct with the wholesaler, that an insufficient number would be left to make up the pool cars.

"However fair and sincere may have been the motives . . . we do not think that they may be invoked as a justification for contravening the prohibition enacted by parliament against the practice of resale price maintenance," the commission declared.

Coronation Proclamation Basis Of Appeal Against Liquor Fines

PRINCE ALBERT (CP)—A Coronation Day proclamation believed to date back to King Charles II will be the basis of a court appeal here.

Hitherto it was reserved for the favored few, the members of the royal family, the members of the heads of church and state; the fast shots of the camera, cleverly focusing on young Prince Charles who stood firm with his grandmother, the Queen Mother, and his aunt, Princess Margaret, will long be remembered.

The show ends with the Royal Family waving to the massed crowds below the balcony at Buckingham Palace. And while the Queen, her husband, the handsome Prince Philip, Prince Charles and his wee sister, Princess Anne, look on the planes of the RAF and RCAF fly by in a tight "E.R."

The color by Technicolor is the number one reason of the outstanding believability of the whole. The narration by Sir Laurence Olivier is beautifully done with taste to match.

"A Queen Is Crowned" is a tribute to the studios of J. Arthur Rank and to Britain. There has been nothing like it.

(A) "ELIZABETH IS QUEEN" (Royal)—Like "A Queen Is Crowned," this British-Pathe effort is also good. But it is shorter and lacks the colorful parades of the Rank production. However, I think the main lack is technical. Warnercolor simply doesn't stand up to Technicolor as far as this corner is concerned. It isn't as natural.

(A) "RAIDERS IN THE SKY" (Royal)—This is a truly excellent movie about a Second World War bomber command. Except for the banality of the plot this would have deserved top rating. For it was acted with simplicity and with the undertones that mark a good British film.

Main leads, including Dirk Bogarde, Ian Hunter, Dinah Sheridan and William Sylvester, were most effective as the boys who flew their missions against the enemy in spite of their fear, with gallantry and courage that will live after them forever in the hearts of their countrymen.

PLANT DESTROYED
LETHBRIDGE (CP)—The Lethbridge sand and gravel plant at the river bottom has been destroyed by the flooding Oldman River.

Company officials announced Thursday they will make no estimate of the loss until they have had a chance to investigate the remains of the plant which still is surrounded by flood waters.

Plans are being made to begin rebuilding immediately.

The huge gravel bins have been washed away, most of the conveyors have been ruined and some have disappeared. The water since early in the flood and the ground it was sitting on had become part of the course of the river at the flood's height.

EDMONTON (CP)—Three-year-old Daniel Horne was drowned Thursday when he fell into a drainage ditch on Edmonton's eastern outskirts. The ditch, on private property, held five feet of water. An inquest will be held.

LETHBRIDGE GROWS
LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—This southwestern Alberta city, long known as a coal-mining and sugar-beet centre, has seen its residential population expand by 60 per cent in the last eight years. This spring its civic population passed the 25,000 mark.

Lawyer in Final Bid To Save Rosenbergs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense counsel Emmanuel Bloch takes the case of convicted atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg to the U.S. Supreme Court today for the fourth and perhaps final time.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser

Don't Brush Your Plates! Soak Them in Polident As Dentists Suggest

Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, banish Denture Breath. Just follow these easy rules:

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only. Polident! Polident cleanser is recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates. Polident gets where a brush can't reach.

Rest of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

The U.S. Court of Appeals in New York Thursday upheld the decision of Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman denying a new trial for the Rosenbergs on the basis of "newly discovered evidence." The three-judge court of appeals also refused to grant a stay of execution pending an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Bloch said he would ask the Supreme Court for a stay of execution while he prepares appeals of Thursday's ruling and other lower court decisions in recent weeks which have upheld the conviction and sentence of the condemned couple.

CANADIAN SHIPYARD BOOM SEEN UNDER REIGN OF QUEEN

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — Sir Archibald Nye, United Kingdom High Commissioner to Canada, believes Britain's shipbuilding industry will enjoy a boom during the reign of Queen Elizabeth II as it did in the time of Elizabeth I and Victoria.

"Our shipbuilding industry has been stable for centuries and even today we can face the competition of any country in the world because we have both the experience and the craftsmanship along with cheaper labor," he told a press conference Thursday.

"Shipbuilding is an industry that has always paid good dividends under our Queens."

Knowland Would Wield U.S. Veto To Bar Red China

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acting Senate Majority Leader William F. Knowland said today the United States should wield its security council veto if necessary to bar Red China's admission to the United Nations.

In his first interview since taking over temporarily for Sen. Robert A. Taft (R., O.), Knowland said claims that the issue is procedural and not subject to veto should be opposed vigorously.

The Californian made the plea as the apparent nearness of a truce brought the controversial question to the forefront of world diplomatic maneuvering and speculation.

It is considered certain that the Soviet bloc will make the demand one of the first conditions of a political settlement of the Korean war.

Search for More Dead In Worcester Tornado

WORCESTER, Mass. (UPI) — A search for the missing continued today in the wreckage left by Massachusetts' $75,000, 000 tornado as Worcester set aside Saturday for a day of mourning.

The Red Cross set the death toll at 93 early today, bringing to 247 the total deaths in the Massachusetts twister last Tuesday and Monday's Midwestern tornadoes.

Ten persons were reported missing and feared lost in the ruins of homes and other buildings torn apart by the whirling column of debris-littered air.

The Red Cross said some 350 storm victims remained hospitalized today and many were in critical condition. Estimating that 2,657 families were homeless or suffered loss, the Red Cross also increased its allotment of relief funds from $100,000 to $250,000.

President Eisenhower declared the region eligible for $50,000, 000 in federal aid.

National Guard troops stationed in devastated sections to rebuilding project but only one ment of his car was crammed prevent looting apprehended six with jewelry and other valumen employed in an emergency Police said the glove compartments.

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Alicia Torres, owner of a slaughterhouse, charged with using dog meat in sausages, testified in her own defense that "dog meat is good for rheumatism."

With ROY THORSEN

This week a tip-off the hat goes to Inspector Charlie Webb, head of Victoria police detective divisions.

Dotting of the neggin-pieces is for a two-fold purpose. Webb not only won the Island closed championship pistol competition last Sunday at the Rangers' title shoot with an aggregate of 1,637x1,800 score but he also scored a 100 possible in a 22 time-fire event. It was the same match in which the inspector registered a 198x200, an outstanding score with the pistol. It was the only possible score in the tourney.

Thorsen

According to Rangers' Jack Betts Sr., Charlie's aggregate score would likely have been 10 points higher if a neighboring competitor's hot shell had not gone down Webb's open-necked shirt. "This put him off for a time," commented Betts.

Betts added that he wished to clear up a few points.

"I've heard reports that Mrs. Gertrude Backstrom, Hoquiam, Wash., was the top shot of the Ranger tournament. That is incorrect. Gene O'Neil, from the same centre, was tops in scoring for the whole shoot. He posted a 1,673 aggregate. Mrs. Backstrom's total was 1,663."

Betts also wished to point out that the tyro champ of the meet was Sub-Lt. Denham Meek, RCN, with a total of 706. He won a trophy presented by Betts. Runner-up was Martin Braten of Duncan.

"We were very pleased to see Ganges (Salt Spring Island), Duncan and Port Alberni teams in the tournament," said Betts.

Victoria's George Ruck made a remarkable recovery recently at Cowichan Lake. According to the story told by Stan Williams, Ruck, one of the fly-fishing clan, got tired of the lake and decided to take his fly. Result was that the rod and all were whisked into the lake. George could see the rod on the bottom, the fighting trout in the meantime taking out the line.

With $100 worth of tackle in danger of being lost, Ruck attached a line to the rod and finally recovered the rod. But the most amazing aspect of the operation was that he also reeled in the trout that was still firmly hooked to the fly.

Just back from a Sayward (north of Campbell River) fishing trip in various lakes, Bill Boorman reports "our party of four got 70 trout in three days, but some of them were pitifully small." Others of the party were Roy Harris, Farris Sturdy and Ernie Wells.

Boorman said they found Mohan and Roberts Lakes spotty. "We got more luck in Bear Lake and Mud Lake," he said.

Alan McLean of Painter's, Campbell River, was in town this week to report there are a lot of bluebacks off Campbell River now, and some springers.

Dune Turner of Qualicum was also a visitor and reported that bluebacks, some of them four and five pounds, are being taken in the waters off the famous summer resort.

Last week's first ladder derby results shows there are more fish in that sport-fishing inlet than in previous years. Fishing is rated as fairly good. Deep Cove is now rated as good. "Dad" Laird reeled in 30 pounds of salmon one evening this week.

Lower and Upper Campbell Lakes still get the best rating for trout-fishing on the island. On this end, Shawanigan Lake is rated tops. However, Kemp Lake of Sooke and Dougan Lake of Cobble Hill are considered good bets. Trollers are doing best in all lakes. There have been a few favorable weather days when fly fishermen have made good scores.

LONDON (CP)—Australia was 243 for four wickets at lunch today on the second day of the opening test cricket match with England. At close of play Thursday, Australia stood at 157 runs for three.

Joe Carr to Compete in Canadian Amateur

MONTREAL (BUP)—Joe Carr, the Irish salesman who won the British Amateur three weeks ago, will compete in the Canadian Amateur golf championships at Kanawaki Aug. 24-29, it was announced today.

Carr will be a member of the English Walker Cup team whose matches will follow the amateur. Harvey Ward, Dick Chapman and Jim McEla, members of the U.S. Walker team, also may compete in the amateur, spokesmen said.

DANCER AND SEVEN OTHERS IN BELMONT

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven horses, including three surprise entries, were named to day to go against Alfred Vanderbilt's Native Dancer in the $100,000 Belmont stakes at Belmont Saturday.

If all eight start in the mile-and-a-half grind it will be the richest Belmont ever with a gross value of $120,600.

The unexpected entries were handleader Louis Prima's The Preen, A. J. Fralinger's Bob O Boy, and Ogden Phipps' Bassanio.

As expected the other five entered are the Dancer, seeking his 14th victory in 15 races; Jim Norris' Jamie K, second to the Dancer in the Preakness; Eugene Constantino Jr.'s Royal Bay Gem; Bruce Campbell's Ram O'War, and King Ranch's Kamehameha.

U.S. Davis Cup Team Named

NEW YORK (AP)—United States Lawn Tennis Association announced Thursday that Tony Trabert of Cincinnati would be captain for the U.S. Davis Cup team against Japan at Vancouver July 9, 10, 11.

Also named to the team are Hamilton Richardson of Baton Rouge, La., and Tom T. Brown of Los Angeles.

U.K. Government Extends Movie Industry Subsidy

LONDON (Reuters) — The done disaster will hit the industry. There is rivalry from television getting stronger every day. There also is the constant development of new technique—wide screens and three-dimensional films.

Because of this rivalry, he said, the government must lengthen the life of the government-sponsored National Film Corporation, which makes loans to independent producers outside the big companies.

SHRINERS WAIT ON WAITRESSES

Waitresses who prepared and served meals for more than 1,500 guests at the Shriner's grand banquet at the Victoria Curling Rink last Saturday were themselves honored by members of the local Shriners Thursday night.

Ten red-tipped nobles appeared in aprons to wait on the girls at a Curling Rink party. Headwaiter was George Brown who was responsible for Shriners catering during the recent three-day convention.

FAREWELL TO TWO-A-DAY

Danny Kaye Sees Vaudeville's Death

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can the old two-day vaudeville come back?

"I'm afraid not," says its leading practitioner of modern times, Danny Kaye. The comic played to sell-out crowds at New York's Palace, the London Palladium, the Curran in San Francisco and other noted theatres.

His example has stirred hopes that bigtime vaudeville might again rise to the glory which it held in the first three decades of this century. Every sizeable city had at least one vaude house and sometimes more. Those days will not return, says Kaye.

"There aren't enough situations for an actor to appear 50 weeks out of the year, as in the old days," he remarked. "You can only play a vaudeville show in certain big cities."

Besides, there aren't enough acts to go around. The only ones who have tried to do vaudeville on the old scale are myself, Judy Garland, Jack Benny and Betty Hutton. That isn't enough to keep a circuit going."

But, as anyone who has caught his act will testify, he certainly enjoys his work.

It's not only fun, but profitable. Amazingly so, as Kaye admits. "I carry my whole show in one small suitcase. I take along five vaudeville acts and no scenery. This show can draw $50,000 for the week."

Kaye has earned such fantastic figures wherever he plays. In his 14th and last week tour in New York he drew $35,000. His share of the receipts has been reported in excess of $25,000.

TOOK NO CHANCES

LONDON (CP) — A record number of telephone calls were handled by London exchanges on the morning of Coronation Day. The Kensington exchange alone reported 1,117 of the calls were made at designated times—eight times as many as usual.

Huge 'Flying Triangle' Carries 100

LONDON (Reuters) — A "flying triangle" jet airliner has been designed to carry more than 100 passengers through the stratosphere from here to New York and return the same day.

Details of the Avro Atlantic, based on the Avro Vulcan bomber, now being built for the RAF, were released here.

The Atlantic—with delivery dates set for 1958—will fly non-stop from London to New York, cruising at more than 600 miles an hour at 40,000 feet. It will carry between 90 and 113 passengers.

The Atlantic now is in the project stage. It would fly at the low operating cost of about 14 cents per passenger mile. All fuel will be carried in the swept-back wings, leaving the fuselage free for payload.

Canadians Send Queen Roses for Birthday

LONDON (CP) — One hundred roses were delivered to Buckingham Palace Thursday as a birthday gift to the Queen from the people of Canada. The roses—deep yellow and gold in color—were picked Wednesday in Brampton, Ont., and flown over. They arrived at London airport Thursday morning.

The long-stemmed flowers are called Queen Elizabeth roses, in honor of the Queen Mother's visit to Canada in 1939.

Homeless Kitten Happy With Young Playmate

Boots has found a new home, a little girl-owner and may be a new name.

Boots is a tiny black and white kitten that a motorist gave to a group of Esquimalt toddlers Thursday and told them to take him home.

The action may have rid the donor of some troubles but they piled up for Boots and a kind lady who finally took the cat in. It had been passed from child to child all day and was threatened with slow death on the streets.

Mrs. L. Fitzpatrick, 951 Dunsuir, took the homeless puss and fed it, then called the SPCA. Officials said they wouldn't come for Boots unless someone paid $1.50 for the service.

An hour after Thursday's Times was off the press telling the story, people started clamouring to give Boots a home. Twenty-four doors were opened to the kitten last evening.

Boots chose seven-year-old Cheryl Rogers to be her playmate, maybe because Cheryl had been in hospital for a week recently and needed cheering up, or maybe because Cheryl has other pets, two dogs. (Boots is still a baby and doesn't know

Cheryl might re-christen Boots as "Pat," after another kitten she used to have.

U.K. Government Extends Movie Industry Subsidy

LONDON (Reuters) — The done disaster will hit the industry will continue to help the British movie industry for three more years, it was announced in Parliament Thursday.

Lord Mancroft, government spokesman, said if this is not because of this rivalry, he said, the government must lengthen the life of the government-sponsored National Film Corporation, which makes loans to independent producers outside the big companies.

SHRINERS WAIT ON WAITRESSES

Waitresses who prepared and served meals for more than 1,500 guests at the Shriner's grand banquet at the Victoria Curling Rink last Saturday were themselves honored by members of the local Shriners Thursday night.

Ten red-tipped nobles appeared in aprons to wait on the girls at a Curling Rink party. Headwaiter was George Brown who was responsible for Shriners catering during the recent three-day convention.

Because of this rivalry, he said, the government must lengthen the life of the government-sponsored National Film Corporation, which makes loans to independent producers outside the big companies.

FAREWELL TO TWO-A-DAY

Danny Kaye Sees Vaudeville's Death

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can the old two-day vaudeville come back?

"I'm afraid not," says its leading practitioner of modern times, Danny Kaye. The comic played to sell-out crowds at New York's Palace, the London Palladium, the Curran in San Francisco and other noted theatres.

His example has stirred hopes that bigtime vaudeville might again rise to the glory which it held in the first three decades of this century. Every sizeable city had at least one vaude house and sometimes more. Those days will not return, says Kaye.

"There aren't enough situations for an actor to appear 50 weeks out of the year, as in the old days," he remarked. "You can only play a vaudeville show in certain big cities."

Besides, there aren't enough acts to go around. The only ones who have tried to do vaudeville on the old scale are myself, Judy Garland, Jack Benny and Betty Hutton. That isn't enough to keep a circuit going."

But, as anyone who has caught his act will testify, he certainly enjoys his work. It's not only fun, but profitable. Amazingly so, as Kaye admits.

"I carry my whole show in one small suitcase. I take along five vaudeville acts and no scenery. This show can draw $50,000 for the week."

Kaye has earned such fantastic figures wherever he plays. In his 14th and last week during his tour of the United States in New York he drew $35,000. His share of the receipts was $25,000.

TOOK NO CHANCES
LONDON (CP) — A record number of "alarm clock" telephone calls was handled by London exchanges on the morning of Coronation Day. The Kensington exchange alone reported 1,117 of the calls were made at designated times—eight times as many as usual.

TIMES STORY GETS ACTION

Homeless Kitten Happy With Young Playmate

Boots has found a new home, a new little girl-owner and may be a new name.

Boots is a tiny black and white kitten that a motorist gave to a group of Esquimalt toddlers Thursday and told them to take him home.

The action may have rid the donor of some troubles but they piled up for Boots and a kind lady who finally took the cat in. It had been passed from child to child all day and was threatened with slow death on the streets.

Mrs. L. Fitzpatrick, 951 Dunsmuir, took the homeless puss and fed it, then called the SPCA. Officials said they wouldn't come for Boots unless someone paid $1.50 for the service.

An hour after Thursday's Times was off the press telling the story, people started clamouring to give Boots a home. Twenty-four doors were opened to the kitten last evening.

Boots chose seven-year-old Cheryl Rogers to be her playmate, maybe because Cheryl had been in hospital for a week recently and needed cheering up, or maybe because Cheryl has other pets, two dogs. (Boots is still a baby and doesn't know about cats and dogs.)

Scores Dies From 123 Degree Heat in India

BOMBAY (AP) — Official reports today said scores of Indians are dying daily from stroke in a record heat wave that reached a daytime high of 123 degrees on the Deccan plateau of middle south India. Sunstroke deaths in the last week were estimated more than 400.

Expansion Plans Require Leaders Of B.C. 4-H Clubs

An appeal for leaders for 4-H clubs in British Columbia, was made by Miss Echo Lidster, provincial director for 4-H clubs in B.C., at a meeting of the Victoria Optimist Club Thursday.

Leaders are needed to form new clubs in other districts in the province. Miss Lidster outlined the plans for the clubs which are composed of boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 21 years. The members are taught citizenship and various phases of farm and agricultural work.

Saanichton has a dairy club composed of 20 boys and girls, Mrs. Lidster said, while Metcheson district has a garden and dairy club of 30 members.

Times Crossword Contest $175 in Cash

(No winner last week.)

THE RULES
Solve the clues as you would any crossword puzzle. Clip out the puzzle from this page and mail it to The Times Crossword, c/o Victoria Daily Times. Extra entries may be submitted on facsimiles of the same form, the same size. But NO MORE than TEN facsimiles will be accepted with each original.
All answers must be received by the morning mail of next Wednesday. Be sure to clip on the dotted line. This is for the convenience of tallying entries.
EARLY MAILING WILL BE APPRECIATED
The answer will be printed in next Thursday's paper and the winners the same day. It will be a good idea to keep a record of your solution to compare it with the answer.
If more than one contestant succeeds in answering the puzzle correctly the prize money will be divided among those having the correct solutions. If no one succeeds in answering the puzzle correctly the prize will be added to next week's puzzle prize money and so on until a winner is obtained.
Study the clues carefully before you write down your answers. There is always one answer which is the best. The decision of the judges in the contest will be final and all contestants taking part agree to abide by the decision.

B.C. Rancher Survives Full Blast of Lightning

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — Prompt application of artificial respiration after he was struck by lightning saved the life of rancher Frank Kerr.
Kerr, his 10-year-old nephew, Raymond, along with ranch hands John McNamara and Don Evans, had driven to a meadow five miles north of his ranch to fix fences when a thunderstorm blew up.
Kerr headed for the shelter of a clump of trees. Just as he was under them, the lightning struck and threw him to the ground. The boy and the two ranch hands, standing 120 feet away, were jolted by the blast. Raymond was spun like a top.
McNamara and Evans, spelling each other off, applied artificial respiration to Kerr for 25 minutes. He was then recovered enough to be taken back to the ranch and from there to hospital at Kamloops where he was treated for shock.
Although he received the full blast of the lightning, there were no burns on his skin.
When released from hospital, Kerr was a "puzzled man."
"I've been trying hard to recall what happened," he said. "But all I can remember is the rain starting and the next thing I knew, I was in Kamloops."

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tears streamed down the cheeks of accused murderer Charles Mathews as he testified in court Thursday.

U.S. Cancels $100 Million Aircraft Order

OTTAWA (CP) — The United States Air Force, enmeshed in a budget slash, has canceled a $100,000,000 aircraft contract in Canada, it was disclosed Tuesday.
Canadair Ltd., the big Montreal aircraft plant, announced cancellation of the order for 227 T-36 American bomber-trainer planes for the USAF.
Canadair, producers of Sabre jet fighters and T-35 jet trainers, coupled the T-36 cancellation announcement with a statement that the federal government will soon place a "substantial" order for more aircraft with the company.
Ottawa officials declined to comment on this aspect of the development, but there are indications a big new order of Sabres will go to Canadair shortly.
There was no discrimination against Canada in the cancellation. Both American and Canadian orders were canceled at the same time.

The 23-year-old wife of Allan Edwin Wallberg recounted the murder of her husband in court Thursday.

long ordeal in her upstairs suite at 1103 Union March 4, the prisoner of a man she testified was bent on murder.

No charges have been laid against the boxer in connection with the brutal beating of Mrs. Wallberg at the Union Street house.

COURTROOM HUSHED

As the 14th Crown witness in the murder trial, the slightly-built young woman wearing a big white kerchief over her head, held the stuffy courtroom in a spell as she told of the attack.

Her testimony highlighted a day of court drama which saw one juror nearly faint.
Mrs. Wallberg's day of terror began about 8:45 a.m. March 4, "just six or seven minutes after my husband left for work," and did not end until 5:30 p.m. when he returned home to find her lying in a pool of blood on the bed, her face beaten almost beyond recognition.

Prize-Winner's Gratitude Brings Blush to Teacher

This is the last day of high school for many seniors in Greater Victoria who were recommended for graduation in all subjects. It was an extra-special day for Prize-Winner's Gratitude. High winner of the Reg Hammond Memorial Prize in biology, she planned an excited kiss on the cheek of Laurie Wallace, athletic director and sponsor of the Students' Association, while Hingie Mar, association secretary, left, and Elizabeth Martin, executive member, right.

looked on delightedly. Graduation ceremonies at the school are scheduled for 8 tonight. Dr. Roy Daniels, head of UBC English department, will address the graduating class, and Dr. Howard James, Metropolitan School Board, will deliver the invocation. Richard Reeve, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board, speaks on its behalf. Tom Elwood is Valedictorian. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

$3.4 Million School Plan Vote in December

A $3,400,000 expansion program for elementary schools in Greater Victoria will be put to the electorate in a by-law this December.

That is the plan of Greater Victoria School Board at the present time. J. F. K. English, senior municipal inspector of schools, said today. The by-law will be presented at the same time as the civic election in December.

The by-law was originally slated for this month but the board postponed it, owing to the provincial election.

The program covers 16 projects and includes new elementary schools in Esquimalt, Marigold, Cedar Hill, Gordon Head and a primary at Lansdowne.

If the by-law is approved by the voters the board hopes to have the entire program completed in about 18 months. Original plans called for completion by the end of 1954.

Officials state the projects are necessary to house the ever-growing elementary school population, some of which is accommodated at present in basement and auditorium classrooms, as well as old wooden annexes.

There were 3,260 more children in Greater Victoria elementary and high schools at Oct. 31, 1952, than at Oct. 31, 1946.

900 STUDENTS

School officials expect an additional 900 students in September over September of 1952. About the same increase is anticipated for 1954.

While the by-law must be put for the full amount of school construction, the provincial government in the past has borne half the cost, following its approval of plans.

The remaining half — $1,700,000, is met by Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and the rural portion known as View Royal.

The school board's first building program is now nearing completion but will have little effect on the growing elementary population, Mr. English said.

16 PROJECTS

The 16 projects in the new program are:

1. Esquimalt Elementary-Cedar Hill Road.
2. View Royal—Four-room addition to existing school.
3. Marigold—Eight-room elementary and auditorium to be located on a new site near Jasmine Avenue, east of Marigold.
4. Tillicum—Six-room addition, thus making auditorium available again.
5. Cloverdale Primary—Two or three of the primary annexes to be located on a site in vicinity of McBride Avenue and Nicholson Street, off Quadra to constitute a primary school.
6. McKenzie Avenue (old)—Present main building to remain as primary school.
7. Cedar Hill—Six-room primary near corner of Arrow and Cedar Hill roads.
8. Gordon Head—Abandonment of present Gordon Head School and new five-room school to be located near San Juan and Tyndall Avenues.
9. Uplands Elementary: Site only. Land to be obtained for future development.
10. Lansdowne Primary: Two or three new primary annexes to be moved to Lansdowne site to constitute a Lansdowne Primary.
11. Willows: Eight-room, two-story addition to eliminate existing three-room annex and basement rooms.
12. Oaklands: Two-story, eight-room addition to eliminate present frame annex.
13. George Jay: Abolish Spring Ridge Primary and build eight-room addition to existing school.
14. E. T. Fairley Vocational: Technical Unit: Expansion.
15. Doncaster School: Four-room addition.
16. New maintenance shops and storage buildings at Kings Road site.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

A band concert attended by a choral group will be presented by the Salvation Army at Beacon Hill Park Sunday at 3 p.m.

Territorial commander of the Salvation Army in Canada, Commissioner W. R. Dalziel, will be the chairman.

Charles H. Bennett of 1710 Stanley Avenue was made a life member of the Victoria Horticultural Society at a meeting of the organization at the City Hall Thursday. Mr. Bennett has been a member of the society for many years and is an expert in the cultivation of sweet peas and vegetables.

A fall through an open manhole resulted in a broken left shoulder for J. C. Pettigrew, 68, Thursday. He is in good condition in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Garbagemen were removing waste from the basement of Richard Hall & Sons, 746 Fort Street, when the elderly man tumbled into the sidewalk opening. He fell about six feet.

Badminton Club tennis championships open at the club courts Saturday. Entry list is considerably larger than last year.

Members of the B.C. Honey Producers' Association will hold a field day on Sunday at 2 p.m. on C. Warrens' outlay on Munn Road, situated about half a mile from Prospect Lake. Members are advised to bring their bee veils.

Because of a change in working hours at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory during June, July and August, the observatory dome will be closed Saturday mornings.

It will be open as usual Saturday nights, however, for the public observation period from 9 to 11.

CAR DRIVER MUST SERVE JAIL TERM

Second Impaired Driving Charge

A second offense of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol brought a 21-day jail sentence to a motorist in Saanich police court today.

Victor Robinson, 3980 Quadra, changed his plea to guilty when he appeared in court Thursday on the charge.

Father of eight children, he was remanded in custody to today for sentence.

He had admitted to Magistrate Henry Hall earlier that he had been convicted of a similar charge in Central Saanich last April.

When he appeared today, Robinson was told by the magistrate that he was under the law but to sentence him to a jail term.

DROVE OFF ROAD

Evidence showed that Robinson, on May 28, had driven off the right-of-way on West Saanich Road and traveled 140 feet before getting back on the pavement. Then, after continuing another 156 feet, his car was in collision with another vehicle.

Two women were injured in the crash and, according to police testimony, Robinson attempted to prevent police from taking the two women to hospital.

Accused was injured slightly, also, and was taken to hospital, after first refusing aid, court was told.

3-Week Wait After Vote To Be Reduced

Bennett Plans Amendments to Elections Act

The aggravating three-week waiting period between election day and the final counting of votes will be considerably reduced in future B.C. elections.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett on his return to Victoria today said his government plans to bring in several amendments to the Elections Act, and this is one of the matters which will be rectified.

"The three-week period should be greatly shortened," the premier said.

The time is allowed for absentee votes cast throughout the province to be returned to home ridings. Under the present system, they must be returned before second and subsequent elections.

Premier Bennett noted with a smile that the year has run more smoothly this year than last.

City Cyclists Back From Europe

More than 2,000 miles of European roads lie behind Victoria cyclists, Michael Corfield, left, and William J. McKechnie. They are pictured homeward bound, at Montreal, Wednesday. They pedalled through England, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Germany, France and Switzerland, averaging 50 miles a day. Both CPR coastal service deck officers, the two attended Oak Bay High. Michael, 24, lives at Maple Bay, and William, 25, lives at 2051 Hampshire. They are expected home Sunday.

$127,000 Changes To RCAF Building Approved by City

A permit for alterations to the RCAF headquarters building at 865 Quadra Street, to cost $127,000, has been issued by City Building Inspector J. W. Oosterink.

Permits have been issued for three other major alteration jobs this week, bringing the total to $206,500.

Simons of Vancouver is the architect and Parfitt Bros, the contractors on renovation of the old Begg Motors Building for RCAF headquarters.

Permits have also been issued for erecting an office and addition at 824 Gordon Street to cost $40,500; alterations to store fronts at 548-552 Fisgard to cost $20,000; addition of five stores at premises at 2624 Quadra, to cost $18,000.

20 Drivers Ruled Off B.C. Highways

Twenty B.C. motorists with poor driving records have been ruled off the road since the motor-vehicle branch instituted its new "flexible" point system May 1.

Officials are considering license suspension of 20 other drivers, and warning letters have been sent to 156.

Screening of 3,100 records of drivers involved in accidents since May 1 also has been completed, but no action taken.

George Lindsay, superintendent of motor vehicles, who watches the records of B.C.'s 400,000 drivers, stressed that the good driver has nothing to worry about under the point system.

"We're only after the bad drivers," he said.

The system has been established under a new "Drivers' Education Bill" in the motor-vehicle branch.

"It's an elastic system with emphasis on education, not punishment," said Mr. Lindsay. "We are aiming at the repeaters."

The number of points needed to take a "give" off the road is not hard and fast under the B.C. system as it is in some other provinces. The point system is actually only for the inner workings of the plan.

UBC Planning Correspondence Course for Municipal Workers

University of British Columbia is preparing to offer a course in municipal administration.

Prof. E. D. McPhee today gave an outline of the proposed course, believed to be the first in the country, while addressing a meeting of the Municipal Officers' Association of B.C. at the Empress Hotel.

If instituted, it will be offered by correspondence to junior and middle executive employees already engaged in civic government.

The course, to be given if enough people are interested, will parallel in procedure the method used for training chartered accountants.

The persons will study by correspondence, be called to four or five-day institutes at the end of each year, and be required to pass written examinations prepared by the university.

NEED FOR TRAINING

Prof. McPhee explained the course had been prepared at the request of the Municipal Officers' Association, and was designed to meet the present need for training.

There are four major groups employed by government, Prof. McPhee pointed out in his speech.

There are clerical workers, trained by high schools and business colleges; police and firemen, trained by the departments which they serve; professional people, such as engineers and foresters, trained at university, and finally, the administrators.

"This last group has a tremendous amount of responsibility. These people must coordinate the activities of all the other groups. Yet, until now, their training has been by-passed."

At the same time, because of the trend of governments to undertake more and more social service work, their work has become increasingly more complicated and difficult.

Prof. McPhee pointed out that as the government expanded its service work, more officials were required. In the last decade in the United States, he said, the number of government employees had increased 30 per cent.

The correspondence course proposed by UBC, he explained, would cover accounting, law, finance and administration as they relate to municipal government.

MEET NEED

Prof. McPhee was confident it would meet the present need. He conceded that it might at some future time develop into a full-credit college course, and carry its own degree, just as

Comox-Based Rescue Team Speeds North

From CP, BUP Dispatches

Members of a Comox-based RCAF para-rescue team today made a successful jump to the aid of a seriously ill RCMP constable at Coppermine, N.W.T., about 1,000 miles north of Edmonton.

The west coast unit was called on to undertake the flight because the search and rescue unit at Namao, near Edmonton, had no doctor trained in parachute jumping.

Squadron Leader Dick Wynn, a medical officer, assisted by Col. Jack Strachan, will give aid to the sick man until aircraft are able to land at the tiny community, probably within a week.

The victim, identified only as Constable Cormier, is reported suffering from a lung disease and gradually weakening.

Seattle KOMO Planning TV Debut Shortly

A second television station in Seattle is expected to go on the air in the late summer or early fall. Federal Communications Commission announced Thursday they have awarded Channel 4 to the owners of radio station KOMO.

Costing an estimated $1,115,460, the new station, KOMO-TV, will utilize a power of 100,000 watts, the maximum allowed for Channel 4 under FCC rules.

Channel 4 is on high frequency band, therefore Victorians should have little trouble in picking up the new station. The present set-owner's aerial for KING-TV will be sufficient for KOMO-TV.

Applications for the remaining high frequency Seattle channel, Channel 7 are awaiting a hearing. Applicants include KXA, Inc.; the Queen City Broadcasting Co. (station KIRO) and the Puget Sound Broadcasting Co. (station KVT).

ASK THE TIMES

Q—In the Coronation parade here the Canadian Scottish wore feathered bonnets and red jackets. Were they the jackets, sporans and bonnets supplied to the Gordon Highlanders, a regiment organized in Victoria shortly before the 1914-18 war by Lieut.-Col. Arthur W. Currie, later commander of Canada's army?—W. S.

A—Yes, the same garments, carefully preserved in storage. Lieut.-Col. W. J. Mosedale says there are enough uniforms on hand to have dressed 50 more soldiers than appeared in the parade of 175.

Q—Can electric current be safely grounded to copper water mains without harm to the pipes?—L. C. E.

A—Alternating current does not damage copper pipes. Practically all the current in Victoria is alternating. Direct current, of which there is a small amount here, is harmful to water pipes.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest.

Boys Who Guard Crossings Due for Feast and Frolic

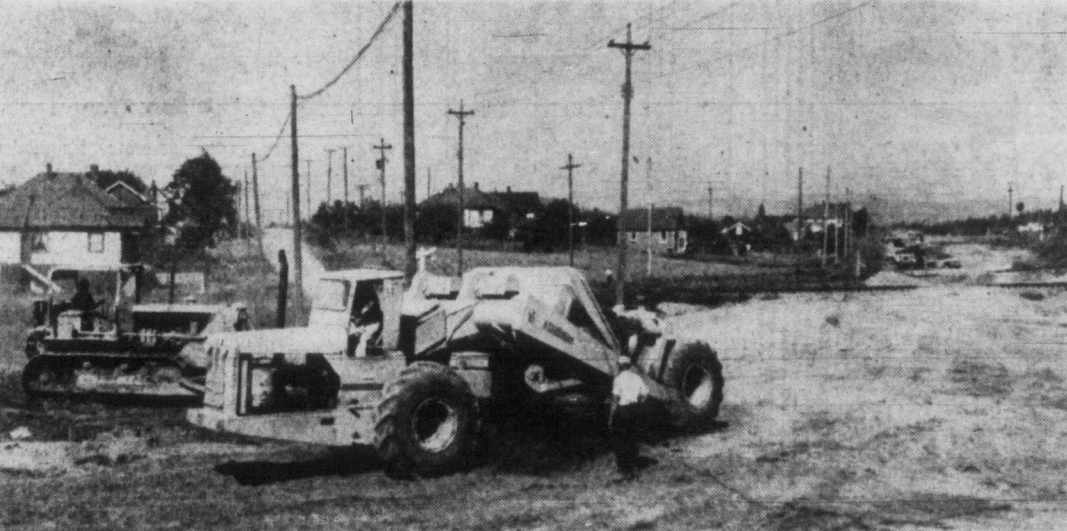

Nearly 600 members of the Kiwanis Junior Safety Patrol will celebrate another year of successful safeguarding of school crossings at a Macdonald Park feast and frolic June 20.

Sponsored by the Victoria Kiwanis, the event will be highlighted by a varied sports program and generous helpings of hot dogs, pop and ice cream.

CADET PARADE FOR CEREMONY

University School Cadet Corps will officiate at sunset ceremonies on the Parliament Building lawns tonight.

Flag lowering will take place at 9. The cadets will stage a short parade, attended by their own band.

Huge Machines Shape New Island Highway Route

Tractors, graders and larger machines like the Le Tourneau dirt carrier in the foreground are like so many mechanical ants, busily converting Battleford Avenue in Saanich into Victoria's new island highway outlet. Big machines whittle down hills and fill in gulleys so that when road is completed, motorists will be driving mostly on the level. New highway route will run from Douglas Street, at Regina, and join existing road near Langford Lake.

Radiant Beauty for June Includes Proper Walk and Make-Up

Traditional radiance of the bride is at least one part calculated. She rehearses many things besides the wedding ceremony—one is her make-up, which she has practiced until it is perfection. She's sure her colors are right because she has tried different shades for their becomingness with a white dress. On the great day, she applies a colorless lipstick fixative (left) as the last step in her make-up. She won't need to renew her lipstick all day and it won't come off on the groom's face. The bride's hands are much in evidence as she and the groom cut the first slice of wedding cake (centre). A manicure the day before the wedding helped assure their loveliness. A wobbly insecure walk would detract from the bride's beauty as she goes up the aisle. She practices walking, for days ahead, in a long, full skirt to assure a smooth, graceful, straight carriage. The result: she feels serene in her beauty as she starts up the aisle (right). If you're to be married soon, why not perfect your walk as this girl did?

Loafing Husband Takes Young Wife's Support

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD

Ought a mother to deprive herself and jeopardize her own future for her married daughter when the husband does nothing to support his family? That is the question raised by a 59-year-

(Q)—"My only daughter has been married for six years to a man who has worked about four months in that entire time. She has supported him from her own earnings. He refuses any help to get work and claims he will get going in good time. My daughter accepts all this. They have a five-year-old son and the father takes care of him while the mother works. The boy gets little care or consideration. I have always clothed him and bought him food. My daughter resents any remark I make about her husband and accepts all my help with little appreciation. I must deny myself and have little security but what my job offers. My life is hard but I would willingly sacrifice for my child and grandchild. Should I continue this way?"

(A)—If your son-in-law were an invalid instead of a loafer your sacrifices would be justified. But under the present circumstances they are not. This is the time to think about your self and your own future.

So long as your daughter is willing to be the breadwinner for the family, her husband will find excuses for not working. Then she must decide whether she is being fair to herself and the child by permitting her husband to allow her to do his job and carry his responsibilities.

If you are not there to lend a helping hand she may develop enough spunk to force him into some action. Even if she is not willing to do it for herself, she will not allow her child to go hungry and unclothed. She will make it plain to him when that she cannot carry the burden alone. He must do his share.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Fifty Years Married

Mr. and Mrs. John Carr, 49 Dunford Road, Langford, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last Sunday when more than 90 relatives and friends called to offer them good wishes. The tea table was centred with a two-tier wedding cake decorated by a neighbor, Mrs. Roy Fraser. Decorations and refreshments were arranged by Mrs. R. Beaton, Mrs. R. B. H. Sewell, Mrs. T. McKay, Mrs. R. Mathias, Misses Jane Beaton and Corinne Smith.

Mr. Alf Task, a friend of the golden wedding couple since 1907, proposed the toast to their happiness.

Mr. Carr was born in Leeds, Eng., and came to Canada in 1894, to the district of Catnam, north of Qu'Appelle, N.W.T. Mrs. Carr was born at Fort Walsh, N.W.T. and she and Mr. Carr were married on June 9, 1903, near Crooked Lake Mission, Qu'Appelle Valley, north of Broadview, Sask., by Rev. Hugh McKay of Round Lake Mission, Sask. They farmed near Broadview, coming to Langford in 1934.

Mr. and Mrs. Carr have one son, George, living in Victoria; two daughters, Mrs. George Miller, Hope, B.C., and Mrs. Nels Smith, Langford. There are six grandchildren.

For Beverley-Joan Bradley

A gardenia centred in yellow feathered carnations and a decorated basket of miscellaneous gifts were presented to Miss Beverley-Joan Bradley, when Miss Megan Jones, 537 Paradise Street, entertained in her honor recently. Mrs. H. Bradley, mother of the bride-elect, received a corsage of red roses, and Mrs. T. Wellburn, the groom-elect's mother, yellow roses.

The following guests were present: Mrs. B. Jones, Mrs. Dorothy Wardell, Mrs. Doreen Smith, Mrs. Barbara Fell, Mrs. Nora Suprik, Mrs. Ann Robertson, Mrs. Maxine Owens and the Misses Rosalyn Foster, Lena Lee, Donna Balma, Barbara Bradley, Sharon Payne, Betty Skinner, Marguerite Watson, Terry Tremblay, Owen Caley, Lois Pomeroy, Joy Riddick and Kay Laidler.

ACI Norman Fraser has supper will be served and will come from St. Hubert, Que., to be followed by dancing to music visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Bowes' orchestra. Roy Fraser, Dunford, Langford, will be here for three weeks.

The annual predicted log race will be held by Ladies' Auxiliary, Capital City Yacht Club, on the Canoe Cove and finish at Bedwell Harbor. An entry of over 20 boats is expected and they will be skippered by the women. During the evening a buffet.

Eyes Are Stars in the New Fashion Picture

Have you noticed that eyes are getting prettier every day? And here again you can utilize make-up to make over your features if you need to give nature a helping hand. If your eyes are too close-set, start lining them about a quarter-inch out from the inner corners, which will give further emphasis to the wide-spaced look. Next step in achieving a perfect eye makeup is to darken your brows with a smooth, easy-to-apply eyebrow pencil. Apply the pencil to the hairs of your eyebrows in gentle feather strokes, avoid touching it to your skin unless your brows are extremely sparse in places, or unless they do not extend the ideal quarter-inch beyond the outer corners of your eyes. If this is your problem, then of course you must fill in the gaps by applying the pencil directly to your skin, but even then be sure you use short, light feather-strokes. And after you've applied your pencil, take your little finger and blend the strokes to achieve a soft, natural effect.

Final and most important step in eye makeup is application of mascara. Apply your mascara with a not-too-wet brush, beginning at the base of your lashes and swooping upward and outward to their tips. Wait a second for them to dry, then go over them with a clean dry brush to separate the lashes and remove any surplus mascara that may be clinging to them. Now, take your mirror and look at yourself, with your pale soft complexion, your rosy pink lips, and your eyes the star attraction of your face! Aren't you glad you discovered how really pretty you can be?

DID YOU KNOW? That, according to the director of a big Canadian cleaning establishment, more than 50% of the garments sent to it for cleaning, do not bear a manufacturer's label? Consumers who in the past have had unfortunate results when garments were cleaned should make certain that the manufacturer is sufficiently proud of his garment to put his label on it. Without this essential information, there can be practically no redress when a cleaner rejects a garment as uncleanable, or an unlabeled garment is damaged in the cleaning process.

Correct eye make-up begins with the application of eye shadow. Eye shadow should be just what it's called, a faint, elusive shadow that is never obvious in itself but that serves as a background against which the beauty of the eyes themselves can stand out and shine. Apply eye shadow to the centre of your lids, then fade it gradually upward and outward toward your brows. If your eyes are too close-set, try concentrating your shadow a bit more toward the outer corners of your lids and you'll see how it seems to stretch the space between your eyes. If your eyes are a bit more prominent than you'd like, try leaving a bit heavier shadow on the centre of your lids and you'll be surprised at how your eyes seem to have normalised.

Second step in your new eye make-up is to "line" your eyes, which will make them appear much larger than they really are. To line your eyes, take a smooth, soft eyebrow pencil, or a blue eyeliner, and first making sure that you have a good point on it, draw a fine, thin line along the base of your lashes from inner to outer corners, extending and raising the line slightly at the outer corners.

Proceeds for Playroom in Children's Ward

Little children such as Michael, Laurel, Freddie and Byron, left to right, young patients in the children's ward, St. Joseph's Hospital, will have a newly furnished playroom connected with ward from proceeds of a baby show planned by St. Joseph's Junior Auxiliary at the hospital on June 20. Babies born in the hospital between May 1, 1952, and April 30, 1953, may enter the show. For further information telephone the convener, Mrs. M. J. Lowery, B 1744.

Garden Party to Help Nursing Home

Mrs. Sarah Penny, left, and Mrs. M. J. Card, have been patients at Victoria Nursing Home for nearly five years. With matron, Mrs. L. G. Reid, and all the other patients, they are interested in the results of the annual garden party, sponsored by the nursing home auxiliary, and to be held next Wednesday from 2:30 to 5, in the attractive grounds of the home on George Road. Stalls will include aprons, home cooking, candy and cookies, jams, jellies, novelties, white elephant and a fish pond. Adelaide Duncan's dancers will present a program. Afternoon tea will be served. Miss Kathleen Agnew will officially open the party. Special buses will leave the B.C. Electric depot at 2:15. Entire proceeds will go toward furnishings for the proposed new 104-bed addition to the home.

Skip-a-Day Milk a Health Threat

Skip-a-day milk deliveries in cities where the system has been tried, show a hardship is worked in small home areas and among low-income families, according to Mrs. L. V. Little, provincial president of Canadian Association of Consumers, reporting to a meeting of the Victoria branch at YWCA, Thursday night.

In cases where inadequate refrigeration is available and there are children to be considered, the system can easily become a menace to health, it was pointed out. Dissatisfaction with present legislation affecting milk at consumer levels, and lack of consideration shown the consumer by authorities was expressed by the meeting. Mrs. Little also gave a report on domestic meat tenderizers now on the market. These products, containing papain, are shown by experience to be effective in treating less tender and cheaper cuts of beef, pork and veal, or for hamburger. Papain is the extract of the fruit of the papaya, she explained, and is a vegetable enzyme like pepsin or rennin that decomposes fats, inverts sugars, digests proteins and curdles milk. It is a substance too active for use industrially, and should be left on meat more than half an hour before cooking. Action consideration shown the consumer by authorities was expressed by the meeting.

CLUB WOMEN'S NEWS

Flower Arrangements—Guest speaker, Mrs. Jean Etheridge, gave a talk and demonstration of flower arrangements at the season's final meeting of Fidelis Club, Belmont United Church. She pointed out a few rules beginners should remember, showed how flowers should be arranged in various types of containers such as vases and baskets. Mrs. Helen Bishop thanked the speaker and she was introduced by the president.

Money Voted—At meeting of Esquimalt Chapter, IOOE, $75 was voted to secondary education; $5 to shipping fund; $6 to film funds; $1 to Peace Garden fund; $10 as a runner-up prize for a student in Grade 8. A parcel was sent to the adopted school at Kyuguet and two parcels will be sent overseas. Plans were made for a garden party at the home of Mrs. A. C. Wurdie on June 27 and it was reported the Veldt-Wilde Dance, Beaver sponsored by the chapter, netted $510. Announcement was made that the nurses' room at Sunshine Camp will be completed this week-end and that a Union Jack is to be donated to the camp.

Official Visit—Canadian Daughters' League Assembly No. 5, met Tuesday evening with Mrs. Gladys Jasper in the chair. It was announced the provincial president, Mrs. M. Hodgson, Vancouver, will make her official visit in October. Reports were given on Local Council of Women and the recent games night. An article on "Canada Under Two Queens" was read by provincial educational convener, Mrs. R. Milburn. Final meeting, June 23, before summer recess, will take the form of a games night and strawberry social for members, convened by Mrs. R. Milburn and Mrs. A. Fawcett.

July Party—Fun for the children, a balloon race, Lady With a Thousand Poses, pony rides, ice cream, candy and pop, will all be features of a garden party planned by Royal Bride Chapter, IOOE, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Brown, Foul Bay Road, on July 4. Plans were made at the last meeting of the chapter. A sum of $5 was voted for the national cigarette fund and educational secretary Mrs.

AN AGE OF GREATNESS

The siege of Kinsale opened in bitter, wintry weather. Little by little the Spaniards gave ground, losing their fort protecting the harbor and depending now on relief from Tyrone, whose men were coming down from the north. Two days before Christmas the Spaniards arranged a joint attack with Tyrone, hoping to catch Mountjoy between two fires. Mountjoy was prepared. At the cost of a single casualty the English drove the Spaniards back to the south, and inflicted a loss of 2,000 men on the Irish attacking from the north. The Spanish commander capitulated, and agreed to take his men from Ireland if they were allowed to go carrying their arms. Mountjoy agreed, and the Spaniards marked: "This land seems destined specially for the princes of hell." It was

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

SATURDAY, JUNE 13, 1953

Aries (March 21 to April 19)

Disturbance in the early morning brings to light matters that have been annoying everyone at home, giving you a chance to clear up trouble. P.M., conciliate upset colleague.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)

Use great care all through the day and evening in whatever you handle, for possessions are likely to be easily damaged. Don't allow unpleasant message to upset you.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)

Your good sense will be put to severe test by temptation to make unwise large commitments. You can have pleasure without heavy spending.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)

Forget your own problems by helping those less fortunate than yourself. Get away alone, for limiting attachments keep you from being objective.

Leo (July 22 to August 21)

This is one of those days when you feel bound hand and foot by limitations you seem unable either to solve or to get away from. Keep plugging.

Virgo (August 22 to September 22)

Try to show up self-friend that self-pity only increases woes. Try not to become too involved or troubled. Will be poured out in an endless stream.

Libra (September 23 to October 23)

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN SATURDAY... Saturday's child will be notable for his or her originality and independence of mind, and will no doubt contribute to the breaking up of old traditions and prejudices. Give this child the opportunity to study modern sciences—electronics, atomic theory, industrial design, for there is a strong aptitude in these directions, or in whatever is unknown and as yet unexplored.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)

Give attention to your spiritual needs before doing anything else this morning. Have pleasure jaunt with congenial friends later, but keep away from sinister elements that beckon.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)

Frustrations are no excuse for taking chances harmful to family ties. Concentrate on showing affection to family, express brotherhood-of-man principles.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)

Escape from painful secret worry by getting away from your own thoughts. Seek diversion with stimulating companions with congenial sense of humor. Laugh—and be happy.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21)

Your ambitions are too small; your aim too low. Channel your efforts to worthwhile undertaking that will be of benefit to your family. Expand.

Leo (July 22 to August 21)

Seek the company of clever friends who have ideas that can help you in attaining your ambition. Avoid higher-up important in your affairs—attractive, but too demanding.

Virgo (August 22 to September 22)

Desire to cut loose from essential duties causes conflict in your mind. See what you can do to obtain more support from influential

DICK TRACY

SCENE: LOBBY OF ONE OF THE CITY'S FINE HOTELS.

WHAT'S THE BEST WAY TO REACH THAT ADDRESS?

THAT'S AWAY OUT, SIR. YOUR QUICKEST BET WOULD BE A CAB.

THAT'S OUT IN THE STICKS, MISTER. ABOUT A FIVE-DOLLAR RIDE! WHAT DO YOU WANT OUT THERE?

I HAVE A BROTHER LIVING OUT THERE. A MAN I HAVEN'T SEEN IN 30 YEARS—ONE OF A FAMILY OF EIGHT BOYS. SAYS THE FARE.

NANCY

BALL PARK

WHAT CAN I DO FOR YOU, AN "GOOD MAN"?

IT'S LIKE THE BROTHER I HAD IN A GOOD SQUARE MEAL FOR THREE DOLLARS AND IF YOU COULD HELP ME OUT TO SURE APPRECIATE IT.

YOU WAIT OUT THERE AND I'LL SEE IF I CAN'T RUSTLE ONE UP FOR YOU.

BLESS YOU, BROTHER.

I'M SORRY SON! TO LIVE TO HELP YOU, BUT THERE ISN'T A THING IN MY HOUSE BUT ROUND STEAK!

AROUND SOME

KNOCK! KNOCK!

NICE BUT I PREFER A WALLET HORACE.

YOUR MONEY GETS FRAYED AROUND THE EDGES WHEN YOU CARRY IT IN A CLIP!

NOT WHEN YOU'RE MARRIED! IT DOESN'T STAY WITH YOU ENOUGH.

DOTTY

SEE THE NEW MONEY CLIP MY WIFE GAVE ME, CHUCK?

...BUT IT WUZ WORTH IT TO SEE YUH HANG THAT MATHY-MAKUH ON HIM, OZARK!

UN—HOW 'BOUT THAT?—AM I A-RUNNIN' IN BASES, MINDIN' M'OWN BIZZNESS, WHEN—POW!—FLAP JACKSON FLAPS OFF AN OZARKS ME!

AN HE'S GOT SUNKUM ELSE COWIN TO HIM. AFTUH TH UMPIRE FILES HIS REPORT, SUBBUN!

A FINE AND A LONG VACATION! ILL BET!

UH—WITHOUT PAY, AH HOPE?

LAZAR!

HURH, DIMAN?—BRIGHTLY IN TH MANNIN'?

AN DON'T BE LATE. OZARK—WE'RE GOIN' PLACES!

OZARK

THAT'S WHAT HE SAID, DADDY?—HE WAS GOING TO TELEPHONE FOR A BIG CAR AND TAKE ME AWAY AND MAKE YOU PAY MONEY TO GET ME BACK!

THIS ISN'T TRUE! IT'S A HORRIBLE MISTAKE, SIR!

YEAH, AND YOU MADE IT, MISTER!

I THINK I'D BETTER CALL THE POLICE!

NO PLEASE!—EVEN THOUGH I'M COMPLETELY INNOCENT! THE PUBLICITY! IT WOULD RUIN ME IN MY HOME COMMUNITY!

WHAT DO YOU SUGGEST? WE SHOULD DO ABOUT IT, MISTER?

KERRY DRAKE

STOP LOAFING AND FINISH CUTTING THE LAWN!

THIS KIND O' THING TAKES TIME, ELVER. BEHINDS "A KNOWS I'M LADY!"

STOP THAT HOWLER! IT'S HEADIN' FOR MY CANNOT GARDEN!

YIP!

LOOK AT THAT! ALL THOSE BEAUTIFUL CANNOTS! RUINED BY YOUR CARELESSNESS!

IT AIN'T AS BAD AS THAT, DOC...

...SLICED CARROTS IS ONE O' MY FAVORITE VEGETABLES!

BUGS BUNNY

WHAT'S WRONG, OOP?

AW, ITS THAT DOCTOR YOU TOOK ME TO. HE'S A QUACK!

SAID TO REGAIN MY LOST WEIGHT IF I QUIT SMOKING. AN I HAVEN'T GAINED AN OUNCE!

UNWELL! HOW LONG YOU BEEN OFF CIGARS?

PRETTY NEAR FOUR DAYS NOW, AN THAT'S NOT ALL—I'M GETTIN' A STOMACH ULCER, THAT'S WHAT!

OH, THAT'S BAD, OOP. NOW DO YOU KNOW YOU ARE?

I CAN FEEL IT! MY STOMACH HURTS ALL THE TIME!

ALLY OPP

SO THIS IS REDDERMAN?

IT'S AN ANGRILLY BLEAK GORY OF PLACE!

NOT AT ALL! IT'S ANYTHING YOU WANT IT TO BE—ALL YOU HAVE TO DO IS PLAY LIKE!

PLAY LIKE?

SURE—WHATEVER YOU WANT IT TO BE, YOU JUST PLAY LIKE THAT'S WHAT IT IS!

FOR INSTANCE, RIGHT NOW I'M PLAYING LIKE A BEAUTIFUL FIELD OF GOLDENROD.

WOULD YOU MIND ANGRILLY CHANGING THAT TO PETUNIAS? YUP! YOP HAS HAY FEVER!

KING AROO

IT IS "MAGIC" ONLY WHEN ONE DOES NOT SEE CLEARLY, OR QUITE UNDERSTAND.

WOW! THIS IS MAGIC! HOW DO YOU DO IT?

IF I'M NOT BEIN' TOO PERSONAL, WHERE DO YOU COME FROM?

FROM A FAR AND ANCIENT LAND—

I COULDN'T GUESSED THAT—ARE YOU REALLY A MAGICIAN?

WE SHALL SEE—WHERE IS THIS CHILD WHO DOES NOT WALK?

ORPHAN ANNIE

IT IS "MAGIC" ONLY WHEN ONE DOES NOT SEE CLEARLY, OR QUITE UNDERSTAND.

WOW! THIS IS MAGIC! HOW DO YOU DO IT?

IF I'M NOT BEIN' TOO PERSONAL, WHERE DO YOU COME FROM?

FROM A FAR AND ANCIENT LAND—

I COULDN'T GUESSED THAT—ARE YOU REALLY A MAGICIAN?

WE SHALL SEE—WHERE IS THIS CHILD WHO DOES NOT WALK?

OUT OUR WAY

THAT'S ALL, BUT DON'T LET IT HAPPEN AGAIN—AND REMEMBER, WHEN THY CALLER CALLS YOU, GET OUT OF THAT BED AND SPLASH COLD WATER IN YOUR FACE!

NO, SIR, MISTER RAY, IT'LL NEVER HAPPEN AGAIN!

BOY, WHAT A SWEET GUY LIKE A FATHER HE TALKS TO YOU!

WHAT'S NEXT, DAVE?

MR. RAY, ROAD FOREMAN OF ENGINES.

CALLED THE CARPET.

WHEN YOU'D LOVE TO LIVE FOREVER.

MARK TRAIL

YOU HAVE ANOTHER IDEA FOR GETTING THE LENS OUT OF MARSH CREEK?—HOW?

I'LL SHOW YOU—YOU GO ON AND I'LL BE THERE IN A FEW MINUTES!

WE COUGHT THAT YANKEE AGAIN, LVA. HE SAID HE WAS COMING TO SEE YOU.

RIDICULOUS! A HERE SUBTREFUGE TO SPY ON US.

BUT IT WILL BE HIS LAST SPYING. WE ARE GOING TO WEIGH HIS FEET AND THROW HIM TO THE SHARKS.

GOOD RIDANCE! BUT WOULDN'T IT BE LESS RISKY TO DROP HIM OUT AT SEA FROM THE HELICOPTER?

AND WAIT UNTIL DRYLIGHT? NO, WE'LL THROW HIM NOW.

BUZZ SAWYER

WHAT'S GOING ON?

YEAH, I WANTCHA TO TAKE CARE OF A KANGAROO TAIL WE LEAVE.

CUDDOUT—VA JOH.

THEN YOU KIN PUT IT IN A CRATE. WE'RE GONNA GIVE BOKIN' EXHIBITIONS WITH IT IN TH' U.S.

OH, THAT'S BEEN DONE MANY TIMES, IT'S AN OLD GAG. YOU WON'T MAKE NO MONEY.

CUDDOUT. OUCH! JOH!

THEN KEEP IT! JOE WON'T NEVER HAVE THOUGHT ABOUT IT!

I'LL HAVE TO CHARGE YOU A QUOT' TO TAKE IT AWAY. WE GOT LOADS OF 'EM.

OH! HURR! YUP... TAKE IT?

JOE PALOOKA

I'M THE CHAP FROM THE PET SHOP.

YEAH, I WANTCHA TO TAKE CARE OF A KANGAROO TAIL WE LEAVE.

Frequent Use of Laxatives Often Causes Constipation

In this day and age great numbers of people have, or think they have, chronic constipation. Perhaps this is the result of our diet or lack of exercise. But true constipation is not as common as most believe it to be. It is often confused with spastic colitis or irritable bowel.

In real constipation the waste matter is kept in the intestinal tract longer than it should be and there is delay in emptying.

Poor diet, of course, can, and often does, cause constipation. Too many people gulp their food down without allowing enough time for their meals. Many of the foods which we eat are so highly refined, too, that they do not contain the bulk necessary.

In some parts of the country and at some time of year, fresh fruits and vegetables make up an insufficient part of the diet. These foods not only supply a large part of the bulk in the diet but also aid in peristalsis or the wave-like movement of the intestine which carry the contents down through the intestinal tract.

Another great cause of constipation is the abuse of laxatives or cathartics. A great many people have the idea that if they clean themselves out once a week with a good strong purge it will be good for them. When they do this, the normal rhythm of bowel evacuation is disturbed and usually is not re-established for several days.

GOOD BOWEL HABITS

The results of treatment of simple constipation, unless the trouble has begun in childhood or has lasted for a very long time, are usually satisfactory. The underlying cause, whether diet, neglect or abuse of laxatives, first has to be corrected.

Establishing good bowel habits by having bowel movement at a particular time of day, and yielding to the desire to defecate when it comes, are extremely important.

Exercise, too, helps to overcome constipation. It improves peristalsis and strengthens the muscles of the abdomen which aid in the expulsion of fecal matter. It is most unlikely, as Mrs. D. has suggested in a recent letter, that constipation has any direct relation to a "continuous cold with much coughing and spitting."

BARONS OF BEEF BACK

160-Pound Joints Carved; London Host to Queen

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP).—Barons of beef—shades of the great gourmands—come back to the festive tables of Britain Thursday after 14 hungry years.

In the revival of an old royal custom, succulent double sirloins will be served to the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh at a luncheon in the 14th century Guildhall. The occasion is the special Coronation luncheon given to sovereigns since Edward VII's day by the Corporation of London.

Seven hundred guests, including virtually all members of the Royal Family, high officers of state, some Commonwealth prime ministers, colonial rulers and top-ranking diplomats, will sit down to a lavish menu of clear turtle soup, Scottish salmon, cold beef and jacket potatoes, Norfolk asparagus, ice cream pudding, Kent strawberries and maid of honor tarts made from a secret recipe.

There will also be punch from a recipe favored by King Henry VIII, one of the great royal treasurers.

Special ovens have been installed in the Guildhall to cook the "barons," which take 10 hours to roast and 12 to cool. The meat comes from specially-bred Aberdeen-Angus shipped from a farm in the Buchan area of Scotland.

Barons of beef are dictionary-defined as a "double sirloin undivided"—in effect the entire back of the beast. They weigh about 160 pounds, are cooked in flour paste and served cold. They were particularly popular in Queen Victoria's day. A city caterer says that because of war-imposed austerities he doesn't think they have been served in Britain since 1939.

The Royal party will be met at the Guildhall by the lord mayor of London, Sir Rupert de la Bere, who will present the Queen with the traditional city sword. This will be the lord mayor's 36th public engagement since May 28.

After lunch the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will travel up the Thames River in a glass-topped state barge. They will disembark at Westminster pier, near the Houses of Parliament.

The Guildhall is the seat of government of the Corporation of London. It still has a temporary roof, reminder of the great fire raid of December 30, 1940, when the city water supply was exhausted fighting fire caused by German bombers. New paneling has been installed and new roof will be ready soon.

Queen, Duke Visit, Lunch At Guildhall

LONDON (Reuters) — Bells chimed and crowds cheered today when the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh drove in an open landau from Buckingham Palace to the Guildhall, home of the City of London Corporation.

Thousands packed the troop-lined route to the Guildhall, where the Queen lunched, with city dignitaries.

The Queen wore a dress of blue-grey with a cloche feathered hat of emerald green. A bouquet of flowers rested on her lap. The Duke's uniform of an admiral of the fleet was swept by the blue sash of the Order of the Garter.

The landau was led by two formations of the Household Cavalry, wearing shining breastplates and plumed helmets. Two more units tailed behind the Queen's coach.

The Queen's carriage halted for several hours to see the royal procession. Office workers left their desks to peer from windows overlooking the route.

The Queen's carriage halted for several hours to see the royal procession. Office workers left their desks to peer from windows overlooking the route.

The Lord Mayor of London, wearing his robes and chain of office, met the Queen with his aldermen and sheriffs. According to tradition, the Queen asked to be allowed to enter the city.

The Lord Mayor presented his sword for the Queen to touch, then jumped into his car and drove to the Guildhall, where he welcomed her a few minutes later after the procession had moved down garlanded Fleet Street.

B.C. Civic Officers Elect New President

R. C. Palmer, municipal clerk at Richmond, Thursday afternoon was selected president of the Municipal Officers' Association of B.C.

He succeeds C. B. Brown of Burnaby.

Carl Brannan, Victoria's assistant city comptroller, was named vice-president.

Leslie Brice of Chilliwack, was returned as secretary for his 30th term.

Others named to the executive were A. Van de Casteyen, North Cowichan; R. C. Gibbs, North Vancouver; H. Glen Minter, Chilliwack; R. N. Chester, Cranbrook; H. G. Andrews, Penticton, and Miss M. G. K. Stuart, of Hope.

Victoria's City Manager C. C. Wyatt addressed the association at the opening session of its two-day conference here, and urged civic government be made a subject of study in schools.

The municipal level of government, he said, was responsible for some 300 separate services. "But this fact is disregarded in education and few people realize and appreciate it. I think the time has come when it should be taught in schools," he said.

Toronto Trade Fair Ends After Smash Run

TORONTO (CP)—The sixth Canadian International Trade Fair ends today after a successful two-week run.

It brought together the buyers of about 60 countries and the sellers of 27 countries. It provided a show window for the products of five continents. On the three public days, it gave the man in the street a glimpse of the wares of far-off lands in what was billed as "a trip around the world in miniature."

As the largest of the trade fairs held here by the Canadian government since 1948 drew to a close, many thousands of square feet of exhibiting space were already booked for next year.

The international gathering in three big buildings on the Canadian National Exhibition grounds on Toronto's western waterfront stirred criss-crossing currents of trade.

Chicago Hoodlums Abduct State Legislator

CHICAGO (AP) — Clem Graver, a Republican state legislator and ward committeeman from Chicago's so-called hoodlum-dominated west side block, was abducted by three men near his home Thursday night and several hours later police had no trace of him.

Five persons, including Graver's wife, Amelia, 51, witnessed the abduction of the 53-year-old real estate and insurance broker. Police said the witnesses gave varying details, but all agreed three men followed Graver in a car as he drove his auto into his garage about 1 p.m.

Graver was seized as he came from the garage about a half-block from his home. He struggled with his abductors but they forced him into their car and drove away.

Violence often has erupted in the wards. State representative James Adduci for Republican leadership of the 27th ward, was murdered with an axe October 8, 1948. His assassins were not captured.

February 6, 1952, Charles Gross, 56, an opponent of the so-called hoodlum element seeking domination of some city wards, was slain in a hail of shotgun slugs fired from an automobile. Police said it was a case of well-planned murder, carried out by experts.

Everest Party Fights Onslaught of Leeches

Blood-Sucking Worms, Threat of Monsoon Floods Endanger British Expedition

NAMCHE BAZAR, Nepal (Reuters)—The greatest horror facing Mt. Everest climbers on their homeward trek is an onslaught of leeches.

Monsoon weather has brought a myriad of the blood-sucking worms into the open. They hang from every tree and bush and cling to blades of grass.

Thin as threads, they wriggle into your shoes, crawl along your legs and fasten onto your flesh until they swell to the size of bloated caterpillars.

Usually you do not know they are there until you feel the blood squelch in your shoe or see a bloodstain spread down your sock.

It is even worse to pull them off, for they tear the flesh and leave a sore.

Apart from an insect repellent which is supposed to keep them at bay, the climbers carry the usual remedies—salt, which is supposed to make them curl up and drop off; kerosene, which is supposed to discourage them, and tobacco, which, boiled into juice and spread on the legs, is supposed to disgust even the most glutinous.

But there is no armor against the monsoon, before which the mountaineers are retreating.

Already, thin fingers of cloud, warning of the monsoon's approach, curl along the narrow Himalayan valleys and mist the giant peaks, and soon torrential rain will swamp the whole area.

Only a trickle of water, are filling up into foaming torrents as glaciers and snows melt in the warmth of the pre-monsoon winds.

Fortunately, the monsoon is expected to be a week later than usual, and the advance party at least may well get on the way to Katmandu before the real downpour begins.

Elections Writs Mailed

Federal Vote Called; Balloting August 10

Formal Announcement Expected From Cabinet

Dominion election day is Aug. 10. Confirmation of the date was received locally today with advice that election writs have been mailed from Ottawa.

The writ, dated June 12, is being sent by registered mail "ordering an election in your electoral district." Nomination day will be July 27. Enumerators are expected to be appointed immediately for preparations for the election.

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet went into session promptly at 10.30 a.m., EDT, today in what may turn out to be a day-long meeting to dissolve Parliament and formally name Aug. 10 as the federal election day.

There were three absentees from the meeting—State Secretary Bradley, Labor Minister Gregg and Senator Wishart. Mr. Bradley and Senator Robertson are believed in London and Mr. Gregg at an international labor organization meeting in Geneva.

A press conference has been called for about 5 p.m., EDT, when the government's decisions will be made public. Informed Liberal headquarters said August 10—long speculated upon—was the day of polling agreed on informally among the ministers. It remained only to have this nailed down officially by the cabinet.

On arrival here from overseas—early Thursday—Prime Minister St. Laurent said he had not decided finally on a date. But several hours later party sources said August 10 was it—definitely.

The announcement was expected to be made after a day-long meeting of cabinet. Several other matters are to be dealt with by cabinet.

Cabinet Post for Pickersgill?

One, it was reported, will be the welcoming into the Privy Council of a new minister—John W. (Jack) Pickersgill, 47, now the $15,000-a-year clerk of the council.

Mr. Pickersgill, who now holds the rank of deputy minister, was a Liberal strategist for years as special assistant to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and later to Mr. St. Laurent. He moved over to the non-political cabinet clerk job more than a year ago.

He is expected to be named as successor to State Secretary H. Gordon Bradley of Newfoundland, going to the Senate.

Another reported move out of the cabinet is that of Works Minister Alphonse Fournier of Hull, Que., believed to be headed for the Exchequer of Canada. There is no firm information either on Mr. Fournier's shift or on a possible successor, though Commons Speaker Ross Macdonald of House.

Briton Dies Saving Children's Lives

BRISTOL, Eng. (Reuter's)—A young test pilot plunged to his death Thursday because he refused to crash-land Britain's top secret twin-jet, the delta-winged Gloster Javelin, into a cricket field full of terrified schoolboys. The plane landed unpowered and was not seriously damaged.

Peter Lawrence, 32, got into trouble in the Javelin at 20,000 feet above thickly-populated Bristol. He could have parachuted safely—but instead he shut off the fighter's engines and set out for open country. He nosed her in toward a golf course and at about 300 feet he skimmed over a field where boys were playing cricket. They flattened themselves out on the ground.

Lawrence nosed the Javelin up to avoid the boys. Then, only 250 feet above the golf course, he leaped out with his chute—too late.

There was no time for the chute to open. He was killed. The powerful Javelin, set on its course by Lawrence, skidded into a neat crash-landing. Neither the delta wings nor the tail were damaged.

YUKON CLOSES UP AS POLIO TOTAL HITS 78

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (BUP)—Polio brought social life to a standstill today in this normally thriving Yukon community.

Military and civilian officials banned public gatherings here and in Dawson City, famous from gold rush days, because of a serious outbreak of the crippling disease.

Public meeting places, schools and theatres were closed as the number of polio cases in the Whitehorse area rose to 42. Throughout the entire Yukon, authorities reported 78 cases, including three deaths.

Health department officials were en route here from Ottawa and Edmonton and supplies of Gamma Globulin serum, believed effective in arresting cases of early paralysis, were being flown in.

STARVING COUGAR MANGLES WOMAN

Doctor Flies Victim to Hospital; Air-Borne Hunter Slays Attacker

ALERT BAY—A 24-year-old Indian woman, Mrs. Peter Coon, is recovering in St. George's Hospital here today after a terrifying tussle with a savage cougar that left her hands and shoulder badly mauled.

She was attacked Wednesday morning outside her home about eight miles south of Englewood on Vancouver Island.

Unarmed neighbors rescued her after a "hand-to-claw" fight with the animal, then called Dr. H. J. Pickup of Alert Bay.

Dr. Pickup flew his own aircraft to the scene, 86 miles north of Campbell River, where he treated the woman and took her back to the hospital.

"She was suffering from shock, but by the time I saw her half an hour after the accident, she was pretty annoyed about the whole thing," Dr. Pickup told the Times today by telephone. "She is getting along fine."

The incident began Tuesday, when residents at the Landsdowne logging camp saw the cougar, and drove it from the camp by throwing stones.

SCRATCHED AT DOOR Tuesday evening Mr. Coon chased the cougar from his home after it scratched at the door, and on Wednesday morning, after warning his wife to stay in the house, went for help.

Frightened at being alone, she started for the home of a neighbor. The cougar, that had been lurking under the house, pounced on her. It pinned her to the ground and chewed her hands as it attempted to reach her throat.

Her screams, meanwhile, attracted A. Lansdowne, camp owner, who grappled with the cougar and succeeded in throwing it some distance. Other men kept it at bay until the injured woman could be taken to her home.

Courtesy police were called, who sent "Skate" Hames, Meriville hunter, to the scene by a B.C. Air Lines aircraft. He shot the emaciated animal shortly after noon, explaining that its starving condition had led it to attack Mrs. Coon.

CZECH RIOTS SPREADING TO BULGARIA

'Near Revolution' Put Down in Pilsen

VIENNA (AP)—Unconfirmed reports reaching Vienna today said riots, demonstrations and strikes are still sweeping Communist Czechoslovakia and that similar disturbances have broken out in Bulgaria.

The reports, lacking authoritative confirmation, claim that Czech workers at Moravska Ostrava, capital of the nation's "Ruhr Valley," and in Bratislava, capital of Slovakia, have rioted and clashed with police since troops suppressed a near-revolution in Pilsen, June 15.

Overworked, under-nourished miners, angered by the loss of their savings and reduction of their buying power through a drastic currency reform on May 30, were reported to have torn down pictures of Stalin and Lenin in the mines.

These incidents were reported to have occurred after rioters in Pilsen stormed the city hall June 1, tore down the Soviet flag, raised the U.S. Stars and Stripes. A state of martial law was maintained for five days.

Unconfirmed reports, meanwhile, alleged that Iron Curtain discontent also has threatened the Communist regime in Bulgaria. Tobacco workers in Dimitrovo and Blagoevgrad recently demonstrated for more bread, which is rationed and expensive in Bulgaria. Details of their show of strength against the regime were not known.

Heavy correspondence greets Premier Bennett on return to city today.

'LIBERALS WON'T BE A FACTOR'

Bennett Predicts Socreds Will Carry B.C. in Federal Vote

By GORDON FORBES

Premier W. A. C. Bennett, exuding confidence and ready to plough into a mountain of work, arrived back in Victoria today after the provincial election and immediately predicted Social Credit will capture the majority of B.C.'s 22 seats in the coming federal election.

"Social Credit will sweep B.C. in the federal vote," said the jauntily smiling Premier. "Now the Liberal party has collapsed that party won't be a factor in the federal vote in this province."

He said he plans to take a leading role in the federal campaign with "a better deal for B.C. from Ottawa" as his slogan. He considers the B.C. election "the beginning of the end" for the Liberal party in Canada. It already has collapsed in western Canada, he said.

Premier Bennett disagreed with the federal government's plans to hold an election in the summer. He said it will meet disapproval all across the country because Canadians will be on holidays.

"A summer election will be boomerang on the Liberals," he predicted.

"It's a sign of weakness," Premier Bennett was met at the morning boat from Vancouver by about 50 candidates and well-wishers. As the Premier came off the boat, they struck up the tune: "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The Premier said he's glad to be back in Victoria and is confident final counts will give him from 30 to 34 seats.

"We can look forward to four years of political stability which will mean economic stability and progress," he said.

He said his government will "resume where we left off" and follow the same program as laid out before the last session.

"Our program, which was defeated in the House, has been vindicated by the people—the greatest court in the land," he declared.

He said the fall session will start in September, and supply (remainder of the budget) will get priority.

The Premier, asked if Finance Elmer Gundersen will seek another seat in a by-election if beaten in Oak Bay, said: "Mr. Gundersen will be elected without any doubt. Great credit is due him because he spearheaded the drive on the Island."

On milk price decontrol, originally scheduled for May 1 but postponed until after the election, the Premier said "it's in the cards."

SOUNDLY BEATEN

The Premier pointed out that George Miller, P.C. candidate and the strongest opponent of the formula, had been soundly beaten in Point Grey by Attorney-General Robert Bonner.

Rain, Hail, Lightning Hammer Lethbridge

Triple Punch Blacks Out Emergency Service, Brings River Up Again

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (BUP)—A fierce rain, hail and lightning storm lashed at Lethbridge during the night and silenced emergency power service that was put into operation two days ago after floodwaters from the Old Man River knocked out municipal generators.

The triple punch blacked out the city. Windows were smashed by the hailstones and basements were flooded all over again by rain that came down in torrents for 45 minutes straight.

Already swollen six inches above flood level by a heavy mountain run-off, the Old Man River rose higher with the rain after it had started to slowly subside.

A few of the 150 persons evacuated from the river-bottom area Wednesday had been preparing to return to their homes when the storm hit. The flooded powerhouse also was returning to operation, with one generator running at a little less than half capacity, but lightning knocked the line that had been bearing the brunt of the load.

The rampaging Old Man River almost completely destroyed a sand and gravel plant in the River Bottom district. Most of the conveyors were reported ruined and some washed away, and the huge gravel bins were swept away by the current.

One of two river pumps was back in operation and water was being pumped at about half capacity. City residents were asked to conserve water conservation. Lethbridge's largest laundry and a brewery reopened after closing down to conserve water at the height of the flood.

Canadian Pacific Railway officials expected regular communication lines would be opened later today. Railway bridges had been washed out in the north-east and west.

Medicine Hat was recovering from a flood by the South Saskatchewan River which forced the evacuation of about 50 persons Thursday when it poured over 30 city blocks.

Seventeen mothers and their babies in a maternity hospital in the area were being held ready to move if the river rose higher.

Flood waters washed out a water supply line at Cardston, a town of 2,500. Temporary pumping facilities were set up in a nearby creek.

The water supply at Granum was being supplied by three wells in the town as the Willow Creek slowly returned to normal level.

Truce Moves Closer As Rok's Demonstrate

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

South Korea remained adamant today in its refusal to cooperate with the United Nations in a plan to end the Korean war.

South Koreans chanted, marched and went through their fourth straight day of anti-truce demonstrations while their leaders stood pat on statements that Rok troops will not be withdrawn from the front when an armistice is signed.

Despite the unbending attitude of President Syngman Rhee and his people, Allied and Red staff officers worked in secret on the last details of an armistice that appears almost a certainty. They have been meeting at Panmunjom since the prisoner-of-war exchange agreement was signed Monday.

While the staff officers of both sides worked for peace the Reds launched new attacks in central Korea while Rok troops battled to plug a gap in the main Allied line on the eastern end of the front.

About 1,500 Chinese troops charged United States lines in the second day of heavy attacks but were thrown back by fresh U.S. reinforcements.

Meanwhile, in New Delhi Indian officials conferred on plans to guard Korean prisoners. India will act with Czechoslovakia, Poland, Sweden and Switzerland as a commission to supervise the prisoners who refuse to return to the Reds pending final disposition.

South Korean leaders said Indian troops will be attacked if they attempt to take over the care of prisoners captured by Rok troops.

STARVING COUGAR MANGLES WOMAN

Doctor Flies Victim to Hospital;
Air-Borne Hunter Slays Attacker

ALERT BAY—A 24-year-old Indian woman, Mrs. Peter Coon, is recovering in St. George's Hospital here today after a terrifying tussle with a savage cougar that left her hands and shoulder badly mauled.

She was attacked Wednesday morning outside her home about eight miles south of Englewood on Vancouver Island.

Unarmed neighbors rescued her after a "hand-to-claw" fight with the animal, then called Dr. H. J. Pickup of Alert Bay.

Dr. Pickup flew his own aircraft to the scene, 86 miles north of Campbell River, where he treated the woman and took her back to the hospital.

The incident began Tuesday, when residents at the Lansdowne logging camp saw the cougar, and drove it from the camp by throwing stones.

Tuesday evening Mr. Coon chased the cougar from his home after it scratched at the door, and on Wednesday morning, after warning his wife to stay in the house, went for help.

Frightened at being alone, she started for the home of a neighbor. The cougar, that had been lurking under the house, pounced on her. It pinned her to the ground and chewed her hands as it attempted to reach her throat.

Her screams, meanwhile, attracted A. Lansdowne, camp owner, who grappled with the cougar and succeeded in throwing it some distance. Other men kept it at bay until the injured woman could be taken to her home.

Courtenay police were called, who sent "Skate" Hames, Merville hunter, to the scene by a B.C. Air Lines aircraft. He shot the emaciated animal shortly after noon, explaining that the starving condition had led it to attack Mrs. Coon.

Taylor at Front

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Eighth Army Commander, went personally today to the blazing battle front where troops of the United States Third Infantry Division have been ordered to hold their positions at any cost.

Frontline reports indicated American troops have suffered heavy casualties while inflicting even heavier losses on the attacking Communists.

Bennett Predicts Socreds Will Carry B.C. in Federal Vote

The Rosten Formula on school financing, which defeated the minority government last March, will go ahead as planned; and a new liquor act will be brought in.

"We have received a great vote of confidence in the Rosten Formula," he said.

Election Writs Sent To Local Officials

Dominion election day is Aug. 10.

Confirmation of the date was received locally today with advice that election writs have been mailed from Ottawa.

The writ, dated June 12, is being sent by registered mail "ordering an election in your electoral district."

Nomination day will be July 27.

Enumerators are expected to be appointed immediately for preparations of the voters' lists.

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet went into session promptly at 10:30 a.m., EDT, today in what may turn out to be a day-long meeting to dissolve Parliament and formally name Aug. 10 as the federal election day.

There were three absentees from the meeting—State Secretary Bradley, Labor Minister Gregg and Senator Wishart. Roberson, government leader in the Senate.

Mr. Bradley and Senator Roberson are believed in London. But several hours later party sources said August 10 was definitely.

A press conference has been called for about 5 p.m., when the government's decisions will be made.

Informed Liberal headquarters.

Cabinet Post for Pickersgill?

One, it was reported, will be the welcoming into the Privy Council of a new minister—John W. (Jack) Pickersgill, 47, now the $15,000-a-year clerk of the council.

Mr. Pickersgill, who now holds the rank of deputy minister, was a Liberal strategist for years as special assistant to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and later to Mr. St. Laurent. He moved over to the non-political cabinet clerk job more than a year ago.

He is expected to be named as successor to State Secretary H. Gordon Bradley of Newfoundland, going to the Senate.

Another reported move out of the cabinet is that of Works Minister Alphonse Fournier of Hull, Que., believed to be headed for the Exchequer Court of Canada. There is no firm information either on Mr. Fournier's shift or on a possible successor, though Commons Speaker Ross Macdonald of the House.

Some other suggested senators: J. B. McNair, Liberal premier of New Brunswick between 1940 and 1952; Joseph A. Blanchette, Commons member for Compton-Frontenac, parliamentary assistant for defense and former vice-president of the National Liberal Federation; Leonard Tremblay, Commons member for Dorchester and Quebec Liberal whip in the House.

Mr. Macdonald is one of those mentioned for the Senate, in the event he does not get the works portfolio. Others include Joseph Bradette, former deputy Speaker and Liberal member of the Commons since 1926.

Several Senate appointments may be announced today also, filling at least some of the 18 vacancies in the red chamber in customary pre-election fashion.
